HITLER DEMANDS INSURGENT VICTORY IN SPAIN, DECLARES GERMANY WILL NOT HELP TO ISOLATE WAR

Plea for Martial Law at East Chicago Is Denied

STEEL COMPANIES TO OPEN PLANTS ON INDIANA FRONT

Police Seize Bombs, Dynamite as 'Back-to-Work' Movement in Ohio and Pennsylvania Returns Thousands To Mills.

FIGHT JUST BEGUN, UNION THREATENS

Scene of Action Turns to Weirton as Discrimination Charge Is Hurlled By CIO Regional Head.

By the Associated Press.

Governor M. Clifford Townsend, of Indiana, yesterday turned down an appeal from Mayor Andrew Rooney, of East Chicago, to place that city under martial law before two steel companies attempted to reopen their strike-closed plants.

Peace prevailed, meanwhile, on the seven-state strike front, but the CIO threatened "action" in a new field.

Clinton S. Golden, Pittsburgh regional director of John L. Lewis' steel organization drive, notified E. T. Weir, chairman of the Weirton Steel Company, at Weirton, W. Va., that the union would "take such action as circumstances necessitate" to end alleged attacks on union members in Weirton mills.

Reopen Plant Tomorrow.
Mayor Rooney told the Indiana governor by telegram he had been informed both Inland Steel and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company intended to reopen their East Chicago plants tomorrow at 8 a. m.

He said he asked for the troops and martial law to avert violence threatened by moves to resume production and to permit the mills to reopen.

"I'm not sending any troops now," Townsend told newspapermen. He would not place the city under martial law, he added, "unless unforeseen disturbances occur."

Golden telegraphed Weir: "Members of your notorious hatchet gang and so-called Security League have threatened, physically assaulted and driven from their employment in your mills with evident connivance and approval of your mill management officials, all of our union lodge officers."

The Weirton plant in West Virginia has 10,000 men. Another Weirton plant at Steubenville, Ohio, employs 1,000 men.

Terror Campaign Charged.
John Owens, CIO director for Ohio and leader of the steel strike in the Mahoning valley, charged in a telegram to Governor Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, tonight, that "a systematic campaign of terror is now being perpetrated by Youngstown police, the sheriff of Mahoning county, aided by the"

Atlanta Beauty Solos After Day's Teaching

Miss Loyce York, "Miss Atlanta of 1936" and recently chosen as "Miss Aviation," yesterday proved her contention that beauty and brains go hand in hand.

After a single day's instruction in how to operate an airplane, Miss York soloed at Birmingham. After Miss York was chosen "Miss Aviation," she said in an interview that the "beautiful but dumb" theory did not apply in many instances.

Stedham Acker, airfield attaché, said it was the first case he knew of a woman flying solo after only a day of dual control work.

Twenty-four new trackless trolley buses, such as the ones shown, took the place of street cars on the East Point, College Park and Hapeville routes yesterday. The buses yesterday made the round-trip in one hour.

Two-Day Birthday Fete of Percy S. Straus Interrupted by Robber.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., June 27.—(UP)—A lone burglar, operating with professional smoothness and nerve, interrupted a two-day birthday celebration for wealthy Percy S. Straus, New York department store magnate, by walking into his home here early today and stealing $50,000 worth of jewelry.

The burglar, with a finesse that baffled police, shinned up a concrete column to a second-floor balcony some time after midnight, opened a wall safe and scooped out the contents, then passed through two other rooms picking up valuables as he went.

Straus himself discovered the theft when he arose at 4 a. m. and went into his bathroom to get a drink of water.

Find Safe Open.

He found the wall safe open and the jewelry gone. Further investigation disclosed that Mrs. Richard Weil, his sister who was a house guest for the week end, had

With her navigator, Captain Fred Noonan, she had flown Sunday to Koepang after a 1,200-mile flight from Bandoeng, Java.

Buddy Rogers and Gene Raymond En Route to Hawaii With Brides

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—(P)—Four of Hollywood's film famous were Hawaii honeymoon-bound today, Mary Pickford with Buddy Rogers, and Jeanette MacDonald with Gene Raymond.

The two couples left last night aboard the liner Lurline, a few hours after the 43-year-old Miss Pickford and Rogers, 34, were married in the garden of a Bel-Air estate, with only 14 persons in attendance.

The red-haired singing star, MacDonald, and the blond Raymond were married in an ultra-fashionable ceremony here the night of June 16.

Trolley Buses Start Service Into Suburbs

24 Trackless Vehicles Are Placed on Regular Schedules Here.

Presaging a day of speedier public transportation throughout Atlanta, 24 trackless trolley buses to East Point, College Park and Hapeville began operating on official schedule yesterday afternoon.

Four special buses, bearing official parties from Atlanta, College Park, East Point and Hapeville sped over their routes, decorated at many places with flags and bunting. The buses made the round trip from Marietta and Broad streets to College Park in one hour flat, minutes faster than the best record of the street cars they replaced.

Officials Aboard.
Mayors J. R. Parham, of East Point; J. R. Cathy, of Hapeville, and G. W. Harris, of College Park, and county and city officials were aboard the fleet of four buses, for which a special motorcycle escort was provided by Mayor Harris' field, of Atlanta.

"If the trolley buses prove satisfactory to the citizens of Atlanta and the suburban towns, the Georgia Power Company will install other trackless trolleys in the city as rapidly as possible," officials of the power company announced.

"We are going to substitute trackless trolleys and motor buses for street cars wherever it is feasible in order to speed up transportation," they said.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the power company, and mayors of Atlanta, East Point, College Park and Hapeville are scheduled to deliver short addresses at noon today when Peters street merchants officially celebrate the coming of trackless trolleys to their business section.

A platform will be erected this morning at Peters and Walker

3 MISSING GIRLS FEARED KIDNAPED

G-Men Called in California Mystery After Scouts Comb Wilds in Vain.

INGLEWOOD, Cal., June 27.—(UP)—Department of Justice men were called in by Inglewood police tonight to help search for three small girls believed kidnapped shortly after noon yesterday.

Action was taken after a day-long hunt by officers and 150 Boy Scouts failed to uncover any trace of the girls—Janette Marjorie Stephens, 8; Madeline Everett, 7, and her sister, Melba, 9.

The children were last seen at noon yesterday when they asked permission of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merl O. Everett and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stephens, to go rabbit hunting with a man known only as "Eddie." Soon after their request was denied, a swimming pool attendant at near-by Centinella park said she saw them walking toward a picnic ground.

Address Is Fictitious.
Police, proceeding on a kidnap theory, announced an address left by "Eddie" was fictitious. They described him as between 25 and 30 years of age, and approximately five feet and nine inches in height.

Officers and the Scouts hunted through the sloping hills that border one side of the Inglewood district. The thick underbrush made the search difficult.

Chief of Police Campbell said he had "given up hope that the girls had been lost, and had called on the Los Angeles police and sheriff as well as the Department of Justice." He said:

"The case looks very bad now, and I can't quite understand it. We have not received a ransom note, and it is possible the children were lured away by a sex maniac."

Blanket Only Clue.

The only clue announced was the discovery of a blanket belonging to one of the children.

Olive Everett, 11-year-old sister of two of the missing children, told officers she had been approached by "Eddie," while she was playing in the park.

"He asked me to go rabbit hunting, too, and asked several girls who were older. We all refused."

Hawks Completes Hop From Coast to Coast

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—(P)—Captain Frank Hawks arrived here tonight, having made a trans-continental flight from New York in 13 hours 13 minutes, according to a film studio announcement.

He made stops at Kansas City, Wichita, Kan., and Winslow, Ariz. He said he was not trying for a record.

Hawks, flying a low-wing Northrop monoplane, said the flight was a "commercial trip," to deliver film contracts to officers of Columbia Pictures before the opening of a sales convention tomorrow.

Domestic Strife Blamed in Slaying of Ernest Fields by T. C. Morris in Early Morning Outburst Against Family.

ESTRANGED WIFE BATTERED ON HEAD

Another Son-in-Law and His Mate Are Shot When They Refuse To Aid Him In Attack on Relative.

In a wild outburst resulting from domestic strife, T. C. Morris Sr., 47, of Hapeville, ran amok early yesterday morning, killing one member of his family and wounding three others.

According to police reports, Morris, a carpenter, stabbed to death his son-in-law, Ernest Earl Fields, 28, of 306 Thompson street, East Point, whom he blamed for the separation between him and his wife.

Prior to the slaying, Morris shot and slightly wounded his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cochran, with whom he lived at 101 Oak drive, Hapeville, and after allegedly stabbing Fields, struck his estranged wife on the head with a milk bottle.

In Ugly Mood.

The Cohrans told police that Morris came home at about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, in an ugly mood. He demanded that they accompany him to the Fields residence, allegedly saying:

"I want you to help me wipe out that family over there, especially Ernest."

The Cohrans attempted to pacify him and declined to go with him. Then, according to police, Morris became angered, drew a .45-caliber pistol and fired two shots. One bullet struck Mrs. Cochran in the hand. The other struck Cochran in the arm.

Police Called.

Morris then ran from the house. The Cohrans said, as they called East Point police, telling officers that Morris was on his way to the Fields residence.

Arriving at the Fields home, Morris went to the rear and attempted to enter by cutting a porch screen. Failing in this, police learned, he ran to the front of the house and knocked loudly on the door.

Meanwhile, his wife, from whom he had been separated six months, roused two of their children, Walter, 16, and T. C. Morris Jr., 6, and fled out of the rear door. Fields,

State Executive Appears To Have Shaken Off Threat of Pneumonia.

By L. A. FARRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—The condition of Governor Rivers was highly satisfactory today and he appeared to have definitely shaken off a threat of pneumonia.

The Governor's physicians reported that his temperature, which was high yesterday, was getting back to normal as was his pulse.

Late today the Governor's physicians issued the following bulletin: "Relative condition of Governor Rivers—Patient passed a comfortable night. His general condition at noon today is slightly improved. Taking some nourishment. There is some drop in temperature, pulse and respiration."

Although the Governor's staff of doctors is elated over his marked improvement, they still can give no indication when he may be taken to Georgia.

So satisfied with the progress made, Dr. C. J. Koerth left today for his home at San Antonio, Texas, leaving Dr. H. J. Strathairn, of Los Angeles; Dr. J. J. Singer, of St. Louis, and Dr. Herbert Kennedy, of Omaha, at the Governor's bedside. Mrs. Rivers remains in constant attendance.

Irwin, Still Admitting Triple Murder, Arrested at Chicago.

NEW YORK, June 28 (Monday) (P)—Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and other officers began early today to retrace the trail of Robert Irwin since the Easter Sunday morning when he was reported to have told police, he left three persons dead in a New York apartment.

Irwin was led into police headquarters shortly after midnight after a plane flight from Chicago in the custody of two New York detectives and accompanied by newspapermen to whom he first told his story in the Illinois city.

The dapper artist did not display the cheer with which he was reported to have greeted Chicago authorities.

Instead, his face was set, almost devoid of expression, as he was ushered into a room where he was awaited by Valentine, District Attorney William C. Dodge, John Lyon, head of detectives in the Gedeon murder investigation, and others.

Entries for Movie Talent Hunt Will Close at 12 O'Clock Today

Twelve o'clock noon today marks the deadline for entries in The Constitution-sponsored movie talent hunt.

With the passing of that deadline hour, the door of opportunity which may open into a career in motion pictures, closes.

Method of Application.

To participate in filmland's search for talent, all applicants who aspire to screen fame and fortune must have their letters addressed, simply:

The Talent Scout,
The Constitution.

As for the letter itself, the applicant's full name, address, telephone number and age must be given. Also enclose a photograph, and outline details of any previous experience in amateur or professional plays, radio or film parts, or instruction in singing or dancing.

Remember that the talent hunt revolves mainly around one point—search for ambitious persons who may possess that vital spark, that intangible something, that leads to the Hollywood heights.

Careful Consideration.

In order to find it, a film will be produced here by Visugraphic Film Corporation. All applicants will be given careful consideration for possible parts in the film, and interviews will be granted those who reveal promise from their photographs or their applications.

From this group, those to appear in the film will be chosen. They will be carefully and fully rehearsed by Jack Marco, Hollywood director and leading man.

This movie will be in the nature of a screen test itself, for

'STRONG ENOUGH TO GO OWN WAY,' DICTATOR WARNS

'We Want Spanish Ore, and That Is Why We Want a Nationalist Government,' Der Fuehrer Tells 80,000 Bavarians.

REICH IS 'CURED' OF JOINT ACTION

'We Have Seen How Collective Security Operates and Don't Intend To Be Disappointed Again.'

WURZBURG, Germany, June 27.—(UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler told 80,000 Bavarian Nazis today Germany is "cured" of any further participation in collective security and will insist upon an insurgent victory in Spain.

"Germany needs Spanish ore, and that is why we want a Nationalist government in Spain," he shouted in his speech before a Main-Franconia Nazi party convention.

Will Not Co-operate.

Hitler served flat warning to Great Britain and France they could expect no further co-operation from him in their efforts to

LOYALISTS FORM ANTI-U-BOAT FLEET

VALENCIA, Spain, June 27.—(P)—The Spanish government ordered a special vigilance fleet into service against submarines today, announcing the Spanish merchantman Cabo Palos, laden with foodstuffs, was sunk by a submarine Friday.

The Valencia defense ministry said its reconnaissance planes "observed a German naval division of five warships on the same day as the torpedoing."

The new anti-submarine fleet will operate out of Port Almeria, which German warships bombed May 31.

"isolate" the Spanish civil war and prevent it from engulfing Europe in a general conflagration. "The Loyalist submarine attack upon our cruiser Leipzig taught us a lesson we shall not forget," he said, raising his fist against a background of the ancient fortress of Marienberg that looms like a guardian above this 11th-century city of lower Franconia.

"We're Strong Enough." "We shall take our security into our own hands. Thank God we are strong enough to protect ourselves... speeches in parliament will not affect our decisions."

He referred to the dramatic plea of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the British house of commons Friday for "cool heads" to avert a European war.

"We have seen how collective action works, we have seen how problems are treated—and we are cured."

Proved Good Will.

"We gave collective measures a chance to produce their effectiveness and so nobody can accuse us of a lack of good will, but we do not intend to receive such disappointment again."

It was during a description of Germany's four-year plan of self-sufficiency, inaugurated by Colonel-General Hermann Goering, that Hitler openly spoke of Germany's ambition to acquire Spanish ore—for armaments and other industrial needs—through a Fascist victory for Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain.

Der Fuehrer said that, when the German "pocket" battleship Deutschland was bombed by Spanish Loyalist airplanes as she lay

STILLWELL ROBISON BELIEVED DROWNED IN ST. SIMONS SURF

Wholesale Furniture Salesman Shoves Children to Safety, Disappears.

A man believed to be Stillwell Robison, Atlanta furniture salesman, was drowned in the surf at St. Simons Island yesterday, according to Associated Press dispatches received here.

It was reported he was coming out of the surf with two children when he suddenly slid under in shallow water, not to appear again. Robison was romping in the surf at East Beach with his eight-year-old daughter, Mary Ann, and his nephew, Robison Cox.

The children told police he was carrying them on his back and suddenly shoved them toward shore with a warning to "swim fast."

Lifeguards at the beach said the Atlantian probably stepped into a hole or slough. Airplanes were pressed into service in an effort to find his body, which at a late hour last night had not been located.

In addition to his daughter, he is survived by his wife, the former Miss Mabeth Carnes.

Robison was 36 years old and a native of Atlanta. He resided at 791 Penn avenue. He was the son of the late Charles Robison, own-

Model Slain by Sculptor

This is Veronica "Ronnie" Geddon, art model, one of the three persons Robert Irwin, love-mad sculptor, has confessed he murdered in a New York apartment last Easter Sunday. "I didn't want to kill Ronnie," Irwin said, "but she recognized me and I had to."

ARTIST KILLER OF 3, FLOWN TO NEW YORK

Chicago newspaper, the Herald and Examiner.

He had been the object of a nation-wide search since the bodies of pretty Veronica (Ronnie) Geddon, 20; her mother and Frank Byrnes, a roomer, were found in the Geddeons' New York apartment Easter morning.

Loved Elder Sister. Irwin had been in love with "Ronnie's" older sister, M's. Ethel Kudper, and New York police said he had a fixation that Mrs. Geddon turned Ethel away from his attentions.

Shortly after Irwin was placed in custody Lieutenant Martin S. Owens, of the New York police homicide squad, telephoned to his headquarters, saying:

"I have Robert Irwin. He has admitted the three murders. He said he killed the mother first, then the girl and then the roomer. 'We are leaving by plane. He is being fingerprinted and photographed and as soon as that is finished we will leave.'"

Irwin waived an extradition hearing. Lieutenant Martin told his superiors he obtained custody of Irwin at the sheriff's office "from the newspaper people."

Wearing a white linen suit, two-toned shoes, Panama hat and blue tie, Irwin was taken from the sheriff's office to the police bureau of identification for the fingerprinting and photographing.

He assumed a confident air while surrounded by police officers, refused to pose for photographers and laughed at attempts to snap him. He smoked cigarettes incessantly.

"I'm Not Worried." When a newsman asked him if he expected the electric chair as punishment for the slayings, Irwin nonchalantly said:

"I'm not concerned about that. I'm not worried about anything." He stepped on a scale which he tipped at 158 pounds and remarked:

"That's fine. That's more than I've weighed in a long time." Lieutenant Owens halted further attempts to question him by requesting reporters to leave the room.

Sheriff Toman said he received the first word of Irwin's surrender in a long distance telephone call at his New Buffalo, Mich., summer home.

Sheriff Notified. "A man who would not identify himself said that if I would be at my office at 1:30 (Atlanta time), Irwin would be turned over to me. I arrived at my office just in time to see several men bringing Irwin in."

The surrender came last night in the office of the Chicago Herald and Examiner but the newspaper did not disclose the details of how or why Irwin took place in its office or how Irwin reached Chicago.

John Denhart, the newspaper's managing editor, in declining to tell how Irwin happened to give up in his office, said the paper had not decided itself whether the details of the case would be printed.

"Didn't Try to Hide." "I did nothing to hide my tracks," the paper's copyrighted story quoted Irwin. "I did not attempt to remove my fingerprints. I know I left my glove there."

"I got home at 6:30 a. m. I never went any place but home. I had washed off the blood in the bathroom. There was not a drop of blood on my clothes."

"I slept all day and woke up hearing them call extras. I spent the next week in my room, coming out only at night."

Blames Friend. At this point, Irwin was quoted as blaming a friend, William Lamke, for betraying him. Irwin was quoted:

"I saw him before I left New York on Sunday. . . He went to a lawyer friend who told the police it would be a good thing to ask Bob Irwin about the killing, that I was missing."

Irwin, the story said, then went to Philadelphia after checking his bag, containing pictures of Ethel, in Gotham's Grand Central station. On Monday he went to Washington.

"I bought a paper and saw my picture on the first page. I said to myself that the next guy I meet will recognize me."

Wanted to Finish Book. Irwin related, the story said, that ultimate escape was not the driving force behind his movements. "I have intended from the beginning to give myself up," the artist was quoted.

"I wanted to finish writing my book and send it to some publisher while I still was at large to make sales. I wanted money for my brothers Pember and Ben. I wanted to give them a decent chance in the world."

Another Candidate for Honors on Screen

Libby Elaine Gilmore, of 571 Boulevard, N. E., is one of the many comely Atlanta girls who have entered The Constitution's Movie Talent contest. Deadline for entries is at noon today.

those chosen to play the principal parts will have an opportunity to show their abilities under fire of the Kleig lights in actual production.

From this group will be selected the best actor or actress in his particular field—be it child-star, screen lover, or character portrayal—for a trip to Hollywood and further screen tests.

Trip to Hollywood. This trip, even if it does not result in a new find for the movies, will be well worth the keen competition which Atlanta and Georgia talent is expected to offer for it. The lucky person will be the guest of Arthur Klein, Ltd., well-known film players' agency, and will be conducted on a tour of the largest studios and the restaurants, night clubs, and other places in the film capital which are frequented by those whose names are known to practically every English speaking person in the world.

The hour draws near. There is still time, however, for anyone who wishes to enter to place himself in the running.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, last night at Washington proposed three amendments to the National Labor Relations Act to insure "industrial peace" and protect the rights of "minority employees, the employer and the public."

The amendments would broaden the rights of employers under the Wagner act, forbid "unfair practices" by labor unions—including sit-down strikes—and provide severe penalties for unions which violate contracts with employers.

ECONOMIC PARLEY TO BE POSTPONED

Roosevelt, Van Zeeland Decide Time Is Not Ripe, Correspondent Says.

PARIS, June 27.—(UP)—Premier Paul Van Zeeland, of Belgium, and President Roosevelt have decided that it would be unwise to attempt any world economic conference in the near future, the Washington correspondent of the Agence Economique reported today.

"No economic conference is possible immediately," the correspondent said. "It is not the international political situation which prevents such a meeting, however, but simply the fact that certain monetary and economic problems have not yet been sufficiently clarified to assure certain success."

"The principal obstacles are attributed to England. However, I have the impression that the evolution may occur rapidly."

Business Progress In Recovery Parade

Sales of Drug Sundries Well Ahead of 1936.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Sales of pharmaceutical and proprietary medicines, as well as other drugs and drug sundries, have continued to run well ahead of those of a year earlier, although the usual seasonal contraction of shipments has occurred in recent months, observes the Standard Statistics Company.

For the first four months of the year, wholesale shipments of drugs and drug sundries were indicated by the Department of Commerce to have been about 11 per cent greater than a year ago, while manufacturers' sales of proprietaries and pharmaceuticals for the same period were up 13 per cent.

Southern State Gains In Recovery Move.

BATON ROUGE, La., June 27. Indications that Louisiana is leading southern states in a rapidly expanding wave of industrial and economic prosperity are seen in a report issued yesterday by Acting Collector of Internal Revenue Rufus W. Fontenot, showing that federal income tax collections in the state increased $4,132,675, or 54 per cent, for the 11 months ending May 31, 1937, compared with a similar period a year ago.

The increase is attributed by economic experts to the influx of new money and the general upward trend of business throughout the state resulting from the successful operation of Governor Richard W. Leche's three-point industrialization program, which offers property tax exemption to new industries for a 10-year period.

Lee Rubber Company Declares Dividend.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Directors of the Lee Rubber & Tire Corp. yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on the company's outstanding capital stock, payable August 2 to holders of record at the close of business July 15. This payment compares with a previous dividend of 25 cents a share, paid February 1, 1937.

MARTIAL LAW PLEA DENIED IN INDIANA

Ohio national guard, "against striking steel workers."

At Johnstown, Pa., a projected mass "invasion" by coal miners from western Pennsylvania to support steel strikers showed advance indications of failing to live up to CIO leaders' expectations.

Bombs Seized. Seizure of dynamite and gas bombs was announced by police in the Ohio section where order is being maintained by Ohio national guardsmen. Shifts continued to change at the mills without incident.

At Canton, Ohio, police arrested Louis Simonelli in a parked car near the Republic Steel plant and said they confiscated 16 sticks of dynamite with caps and fuses.

At Youngstown, police Chief Olson announced six gas bombs and one dynamite bomb had been found near a Youngstown Sheet & Tube plant gate.

Movement Gains. The back-to-work movements in Ohio and Pennsylvania continued peacefully, although CIO union spokesmen announced:

"We have just begun to fight." More men trooped back to their jobs through picketless gates at Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works in Johnstown. Police Supervisor Captain Clark estimated between 4,000 and 5,000 returned Saturday. Union leaders, however, said

"I saw him before I left New York on Sunday. . . He went to a lawyer friend who told the police it would be a good thing to ask Bob Irwin about the killing, that I was missing."

Irwin, the story said, then went to Philadelphia after checking his bag, containing pictures of Ethel, in Gotham's Grand Central station. On Monday he went to Washington.

"I bought a paper and saw my picture on the first page. I said to myself that the next guy I meet will recognize me."

Wanted to Finish Book. Irwin related, the story said, that ultimate escape was not the driving force behind his movements. "I have intended from the beginning to give myself up," the artist was quoted.

"I wanted to finish writing my book and send it to some publisher while I still was at large to make sales. I wanted money for my brothers Pember and Ben. I wanted to give them a decent chance in the world."

MINE SWEEPER SINKS; CREW REPORTED SAVED LOS ANGELES, June 27.—(P) The navy mine sweeper, Sanderling, was lost in mid-Pacific while being towed yesterday from Honolulu by the navy tanker Cuyama, the fleet base reported today. There was no loss of life. The cause was unreported.

The Sanderling was one of the fleet of 950-ton sweepers built for World War service. She had been out of commission at Pearl harbor, Hawaii, since 1922.

HOME TOWN DEDICATES WILEY POST MEMORIAL MAYSVILLE, Okla., June 27.—(P) Old friends, classmates and relatives of Wiley Post today dedicated a memorial to the famous aviator who crashed to his death with Will Rogers in Alaska, August 15, 1935.

The memorial—a $46,000 school building unit, was erected at the spot where Post made his first parachute jump in 1922.

VERSAILLES TREATY 18 YEARS OLD TODAY, WRECKED BY HITLER

Only Territorial Provisions of World War Agreement Remain.

PARIS, June 27.—(AP)—The treaty of Versailles, 18 years old tomorrow, has been almost completely destroyed by Adolf Hitler's ax.

The continued separation of 1,303,879 square miles of territory in Europe, Africa, Asia and the Pacific islands and about 17,000,000 persons from the fatherland today constituted almost the only tangible evidence the pact was still in effect.

Eighteen years of steady German hacking have left only the territorial and colonial clauses intact.

The Nazi chancellor cut away most of the rest without war; but Frenchmen declare he will have to fight to remake the maps.

In Europe there remain 27,552 square miles of former German territory, peopled by nearly 6,500,000 persons who would have been Germans but for the war, under sovereignty of other powers.

France has Alsace-Lorraine, Belgium has Eupen and Malmedy. Czechoslovakia has part of Upper Silesia. Lithuania has Memel. Poland has her Corridor to the sea. Denmark has northern Schleswig. The Free City of Danzig nominally is under the League of Nations, although practically it is under Nazi control.

In Africa, Tanganyika, Southwest Africa, Cameroon and Togoland are ruled by the British empire and France. New Guinea, Western Samoa, Nauru island and the Solomon Islands are British mandates. Japan has a firm hold on the Marshall and Caroline islands in the equatorial Pacific.

All the treaty limitations upon Germany within her own frontiers are gone. Military clauses have all been scrapped.

The League of Nations, created in the treaty's preamble, still lives, but Germany has not been a member for several years.

Two reparations payments were scaled down. Since 1931 no payments have been made.

AUTO TOLL MOUNTS. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 27.—(AP)—State Board of Health records showed today Florida traffic accidents took the lives of 237 persons in the first four months of this year. Over the corresponding period last year, the death toll was 219.

Man Gets 4 Cents Owed for 39 Years

MINNEAPOLIS, June 27.—(AP)—Being a persistent soul, J. P. H. Brombach, manager of the First National Bank, has finally collected the four cents the bank owed him for 39 years.

Completing 40 years of service with the bank, Brombach told associates how, in his first year of service he was a messenger at an annual salary of $100. His monthly pay check was $8.33, which totaled 4 cents short of the $100 at the end of the year. When the matter was directed to the attention of bank officials, the bank executive committee promptly voted its chairman authority to pay the debt—but without interest.

Denmark has northern Schleswig. The Free City of Danzig nominally is under the League of Nations, although practically it is under Nazi control.

New and Retiring State Legion Commanders

J. P. (Pat) Kelly, of Valdosta, Ga., new state commander of the American Legion, is shown above at left with Ed F. O'Connor, of Savannah, retiring state commander, who was elected national executive committee member at the closing session of the Legion's annual convention at Albany. Kelly, wounded in action three times during the World War, is district manager of the United States employment service at Valdosta.

Kennesaw Battle Unknown Soldier Paid Honor at Marietta Ceremony

MARIETTA, Ga., June 27.—Dozens of prominent Georgians gathered on the slopes of Kennesaw Mountain here this afternoon to honor the "Unknown Soldier" of the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain, fought 73 years ago, June 27, 1864.

Former State Senator Fred Morris delivered the tribute at the grave in which is buried the remains of a soldier found on the battlefield in 1934. The Kennesaw chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy covered the mound with floral offerings and placed an American and Confederate flag at the head.

Judge Jule W. Felton, of the Georgia court of appeals, in the main address of the day, appealed for a return to the ideals of the past—as glorified by both northern and southern soldiers—and warned that "the time has come to guard your homes and your factories against the inroads of foreign doctrines." He called for a strict regard of law through a militant public opinion.

Mayor T. M. Brumby, of Marietta, in his address of welcome, envisioned a Kennesaw park in the near future which will cover the entire area of the battlefield, only a small part of which now is owned by the government.

James T. Manning, of Marietta, was master of ceremonies. Brigadier General R. O. Van Horn, of Atlanta, made a short talk, after which there was a military procession to the grave.

HAPEVILLE MAN KILLS SON-IN-LAW

In the meantime, had glimpsed Morris through a window.

Five Shots Fired. Fields then ran to the rear of the house, hoping to call police. Morris saw him, however, and fired five shots. The bullets missed, and he then jumped on the fleeing Fields.

As both tumbled to the ground, Morris was said to have drawn a knife and stabbed Fields in the throat, severing his jugular vein.

Mortally wounded and bleeding profusely, Fields staggered to the front of the house.

Mrs. Morris, who had been hiding in shrubbery nearby, came out of her place of concealment. Morris saw her, and, still in fighting mood, police said, struck his wife on the head with a milk bottle. Not badly wounded, however, Mrs. Morris grappled with her husband and held him until Patrolmen Paul Kohler and W. B. Couch arrived.

Wounded Man Collapses. Meanwhile, the wounded Fields had collapsed on the ground. Morris was taken to Fulton Tower, where a charge of murder was placed against him. Mr. and Mrs. Cochran were treated at Grady hospital. Mrs. Morris did not require hospital treatment, although she suffered a severe bruise on the head.

Police learned that Morris and his wife were separated about six months ago. He left his home with Fields and went to live with the Cohrans, who told police that Morris had harbored bitter resentment against Fields since the time of the separation.

Neighbors said last night that, although Morris had been in no trouble before, he had "been a different person since he and his wife were not living together."

Besides his wife, Fields is survived by a daughter, Jeannette Louise Fields; a brother, R. A. Fields; his mother, Mrs. Hattie Hamilton; his father, D. M. Fields, and a sister, Mrs. J. K. Mitchell.

Final rites will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Level Creek Methodist church. Burial will be in the churchyard, under direction of A. C. Hemperley & Sons.

WPA HARASSED

Executives Face Tough Task in Trimming Rolls.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—WPA executives yearned today for a sharp upturn in business to make easier their task of cutting some 314,000 workers off the rolls by July 15.

Harassed by complaints against dismissals, officials pointed out it is far simpler to trim the rolls by taking advantage of a turnover—not replacing men who leave WPA for jobs in private industry.

WPA enrollment was just under 2,000,000 early this month and Administrator Harry L. Hopkins has said the number must be down to 1,680,000 goal July 15.

KING REVIEWS VETS George VI Warns World of War's Calamity.

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Eighty thousand British veterans of the World War, 600 of them women and most of them gray-haired, marched past King George VI and Queen Elizabeth today in the largest parade ever held in Hyde Park.

King George in a brief speech reminded the veterans, Britain and Europe that "War is a great calamity for victors and vanquished alike."

"If we can convince the world of this fact, then I feel we can render no greater service to the human race," the King declared.

JOHN WALKER HOOKS FOUND DEAD IN HOME John Walker Hooks, of 780 1-2 Marietta street, was found dead in a bathtub at his home early yesterday. He was taken to Grady hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

The body was taken to the West Side Funeral Home, where Coronator Paul Donohoo will hold an inquest at 8 o'clock this morning. Mr. Hooks was 54 years old.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Haskins, of Jacksonville; Mrs. D. F. Jones, of Stoneville, Ga.; and Mrs. R. H. Ellis, of Jacksonville.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by West Side Funeral Home.

$5,000 FIRE DESTROYS STORE AT BUFORD, GA. BUFORD, Ga., June 27.—Fire of an unknown origin destroyed the Gordon Burel grocery here this morning and slightly damaged the Buford city library before it was extinguished.

The blaze started at about 9 o'clock this morning and was extinguished an hour later. Merchandise in the store, valued at $3,000, was ruined by fire and water, and the damage to the building proper was estimated at $2,000. Part of the merchandise loss was covered by insurance.

Prisoners in the city jail, also located in the city hall, were removed from their cells during the blaze.

Film Stars Stricken By Poisoned Food

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—(AP) Margaret Lindsay, Jean Parker and Barbara Stanwyck, screen actresses, are among a score of southern California residents suffering from intestinal disorders which county authorities believe may have been caused by poison sprays used on vegetables.

The state department of agriculture has started a widespread inspection of fruits and vegetables at markets, and warned housewives to wash thoroughly foodstuffs served without being cooked.

been robbed of a purse containing about $60 cash.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Straus and his sister, there were nine servants in the house. Several other guests were there during the evening at a party given in honor of Straus' 61st birthday anniversary.

The other guests had left and the household retired about midnight. In a garage and lodge house on the 10-acre estate were 12 other servants and groundkeepers.

Overlooks Wrist Watch. The burglar passed through the grounds, climbed up the tall, white portico and cut open a screen covering a window of Straus' bedroom.

He stepped in and opened the safe. He then passed into Mrs. Weil's room and took her purse but apparently overlooked a costly diamond-studded wristwatch lying under it.

He extracted the bills from the purse and took it back into the room, then passed into an unoccupied guest room, removed a window screen and dropped to the ground.

ATLANTA IS KILLED ON ROME TRAIN BRIDGE ROME, Ga., June 27.—(AP)—Police Chief C. L. Harris said today a man he believed to be H. H. Barber, 38, of Atlanta, apparently had been killed by a train and knocked off a railway trestle across the Etowah river.

A foot with a shoe still on it, a piece of skull, bits of clothing and a meal ticket with Barber's name on it were found near the river trestle this morning. Rivermen were dragging in attempt to locate the body.

Several hours later the body was recovered. Officers said acquaintances definitely identified the man as Barber. They added he apparently had taken a short-cut across the trestle and was caught by the train before he reached the end.

TOM C. JOHNSON, 44, PASSES AT HOSPITAL Tom C. Johnson, World War veteran and a resident of Atlanta for more than 35 years, died at a private hospital yesterday.

Mr. Johnson was 44 years old and resided at 393 North Highland avenue. He was a native of Clarkston, Ga., and was a member of the Sacred Heart church.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three sons, T. C. Jr., Charles, and J. B. Johnson; two daughters, Marguerite and Betty Jene Johnson; a brother, J. Herbert Johnson; two sisters, Mrs. Leila Moor and Mrs. E. R. Murphy; and his mother, Mrs. J. B. Johnson.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Condor.

Toole, the officers testified, shouted he would kill himself rather than go to jail. The deputies said Toole was wanted for disorderly conduct.

THE "GEORGIA PLAN" IN FORESTRY

For the past nine years, in the rural schools of the state, the "Georgia plan" of giving practical forestry training has been in operation, through the co-operating efforts of the divisions of forestry and vocational education. It was begun to give practical forestry training to the farmers and foresters of the future in conservation and development of the natural resources of the state.

A resume of progress today reveals convincing proof of the advantage of the plan. During the past year more than 4,000 vocational students received instruction in various forestry practices; more than 500 pounds of pine seed were collected by these students; 50 seed beds were established to meet, in part, the demand for seedlings in their communities, and approximately 500,000 seedlings were raised.

Thousands of trees are planted by the boys who receive this training, upon their home farms each year, and many acres of timberland are protected from fire. More than 40 of these schools last year prepared forestry exhibits for community and county fairs, thus creating new interest in proper forestry practices. Adult farmers in the communities reached are encouraged and assisted to plant seedlings on idle lands. Last year's forestry teachers in these vocational schools assisted such farmers in planting more than 600,000 seedlings.

Thus the value of protection of the forests and development of the timber wealth of the state is inculcated in the hearts and minds of the next generation. Through the "school forests," a part of the equipment of each school, the boys put into practice what they learn in the classroom and, in later life, they repeat their experience on the suitable lands of their family farms or in their home communities.

The day is fast approaching when Georgians will realize that the state has, in present and potential forests, a source of wealth beyond imagination. The "Georgia plan" of vocational teaching in forestry will have large part in the awakening of that realization.

DEGENERATES AT LARGE

Joseph McConkey, 13-year-old boy of Rochester, N. Y., is the latest victim of one of those sex-maniac crimes which seem to come with increasing frequency to shock all normal people.

It is stated that the police of Rochester have in their hands a suspect but that no charge has been made against him. The man under questioning is said to have been arrested four times before on statutory charges and to have been once convicted for such an offense.

Such a situation reveals a weakness in American law which should be quickly remedied for the protection of innocent children and women. Presumably, if the man now held by police in this case is now shown to be innocent of the McConkey atrocity, he will be turned loose. Yet the record shows he is, at least, a menace to society while at large. His record of four arrests and one conviction for similar offenses reveals a predisposition to perpetrate such crimes.

The man of such abnormal type is himself a victim of a queer quirk in nature. He should be treated as one diseased, but he should, most emphatically, be confined before he commits his crime, instead of after. For the safety of the public, provision should be made where such abnormalities of humanity can be kept in safety, either until they are unquestionably made normal or for life, if the case is hopeless.

PASS THE HOMARUS

The Federal Bureau of Fisheries has failed to satisfy the objections of Maine lobster fishermen by calling the edible crustacean a homarus. This is the Latin name for the be-clawed seafood.

The difficulty all arises from a plea to congress from the lobstermen of Maine to do something about the imported delicacy, the South African "spiny lobster," which seriously threatens their market. The creature from South Africa is classless, but very meaty, and last year 500,000 pounds were imported, which was 400 per cent increase over the year before. No wonder the Maine people are perturbed.

The Bureau of Fisheries tried to appease the Maine protesters by calling the rival products of the deep by their Latin names, homarus for the Maine denizens and palmarus for the cousin from South Africa. But still the Maine objections continued, not unreasonably.

For who can expect to develop an American palate that calls for homarus or palmarus? A lobster by any other name may taste as fine, but on the menu a la carte it must be "Lobster a la Newburgh."

The Cookson Hills of Oklahoma, long a hide-out for desperadoes, are to be opened as a national park. The public will please not feed or otherwise annoy the gorillas.

As far back as history reaches, talking out of turn has been entered in a Russian death certificate as a natural cause.

TRACKLESS AND SILENT.

There are many things to be said in favor of the new trackless trolleys which were put into operation yesterday on the East Point, College Park and Hapeville lines from Atlanta, but not the least of their many advantages is the absence of clanging disturbance.

Running on rubber tires over smooth paving, instead of steel wheels on rails, the new cars move with no more noise than a good automobile and, by that token, should reduce the ratio of nervous disorders in Atlanta's population by considerable degree.

The new cars, of course, have many other advantages. They are more comfortable for their riders, thus removing another disturbing factor to the human nervous system. They contribute to improvement of traffic conditions, their mobility permitting them to weave in and out of traffic and to draw to the side of the street to load or discharge passengers.

Trackless trolleys have been successfully operated for years in a number of other cities in various parts of the world. They will contribute just as much to better traffic and quieter life in Atlanta as they have elsewhere. It is to be hoped the local traction company will supplant their old-style cars on other routes with the new vehicles as rapidly as circumstances permit. It will be a good day for Atlanta when the last piece of street railway rail is taken out of her street paving.

LAND OWNERSHIP MEANS PEACE.

Stiles A. Martin, statistician of the Georgia Department of Agriculture, in a recent contributed editorial in the Lavonia Times, urged ownership of land as the most certain panacea for human problems. "Love your land, it's the source of all wealth," is the text of Mr. Martin's observations.

"The man who lives on the land starts no wars and generally lives at peace with his neighbors and the world, loves nature and reveres God, because he sees His handiwork in every blade of grass, every grain of corn, every calf, every colt; in every drop of rain, in every lightning flash, in the sun's rays by day and the moonbeams at night," Mr. Martin writes.

Rush Burton, editor of the Lavonia Times, one of Georgia's outstanding weekly papers, has performed a service to the state in publishing this editorial. If it could be read by every Georgian it would serve as a signpost to that security which is the life objective of every normal man and woman.

After pointing out that every living thing, animal and vegetable, owes its life to the land, that every substance on earth comes from and returns to the soil, Mr. Martin shows that land is the only material thing man knows which remains forever permanent.

Even granting the permanency of land in its totality, however, the editorial ends on a note of warning to the individual owner of the land.

"If you own land," it reads, "protect it from erosion and washing by terracing, by rotation of crops, and by keeping as much of the water as possible on the land that falls upon it. Muddy water contains soil. Three kinds of land do not lose soil; grassy pastures, grain fields and woodland."

There is a sermon and a parable, an essay and a lesson in Mr. Martin's words which should be read and studied and remembered by every citizen of Georgia.

What with pocket battleships and canoes that fold up, a "concealed weapon" these days could be a navy.

The chairman of a Cuban assembly hurled the gavel at a delegate. It violates a first rule of parliamentary impartiality—with mallets toward none.

SUFFERING WOMEN OF SPAIN
(From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

While guns roar and planes screech over Spain in one of the bloodiest civil conflicts in history, women of the riven nation lament on a million Golgothas, crucified with impotent grief. They have seen their husbands and brothers torn from them and sent to death. Perhaps they could understand that. They have seen their homes crushed into debris by sudden showers of inescapable bombs. Perhaps they expected that. But they have been met by deadly machine-gun fire from swooping marauders of the air as they fled frantically from their ruined cities and villages. They have seen the children of Spain butchered or scattered, casualties of war, to the shores of reluctantly welcoming foreign nations. Could they be expected to comprehend that?

Whatever the sympathies for principles involved in the Spanish strife, compassion only can be felt for the women who must bear the most savage brunt of destruction on that interminable battleground.

Spanish women, like most other women, hate and dread the thought of war. Regardless of their bravest hopes and convictions for the welfare of their ideal state, they can see nothing but anguish and personal defeat in warfare.

Fleets of airplanes have roared above thousands of homes to loose death upon the heads of the defenseless. As the accounts of military advances and sieges, defeats and maneuvers have filled the pages of newspapers during the 11 months of the Spanish war, frequent, brief references have been made to women and children among the casualties.

WIND AND WHIRLWIND.
John Lewis is being held responsible for the violence which he is not able to control. But who will be responsible for the counter forces, which are also loose and which may prove eventually even more difficult to control?

I have on my desk a "warning" issued June 7, ostensibly by a group called "The Vigilantes and Affiliated Organizations." It asserts that "the blood of the founding fathers still courses through the veins of millions of Americans" and then tells us what those with that blood are preparing to do.

"The key men of the Vigilantes and Affiliated Organizations," it asserts, "have a large number of 24-hour men who are ready to respond when called. These men have already received instruction and could converge upon any designated point in overwhelming numbers."

"When the time comes no quarter or consideration will be shown to the traitors to American democracy. Methods will be ruthless, swift and sure, for when we stand we must at any cost rid the nation of the subversive elements who today think they are riding the crest of the wave."

In this amazing document the President and Mr. Lewis are described as public enemies. Numbers 1 and 2, and "The Vigilantes" threaten Mr. Lewis with "appropriate action that will let loose the dogs of civil war." They threaten that if legislation now proposed in Washington passes, "an indignant army of citizens will be taking things into their own hands."

"When the zero hour arrives, there will be no polite knocking upon doors. We will arrive unannounced and in sufficient numbers. We are checking and receiving daily the subversive and radical elements. We do not want the innocent to suffer with the guilty."

I do not know who sent out this warning and threat of insurrection, which has been received by numerous members of congress, but it testifies to a new salient behavior which is not new. Just now the working classes think that they are very strong. They have an aggressive and able leader; they have a friendly government with a large majority; they have a relief in the form of a new tax, and a general economic situation favorable to the demands they make upon industry. Their right to organize themselves into trade unions is secured to them in law. Now, or never, they think, is the time to push ahead, occupy new positions, take new salients.

They are under no illusions about the general benevolence of many of the employers. They know that most American industrialists heartily dislike the whole

Of Atlanta in Birth Pangs.

In the latest bulletin issued by the Atlanta Historical Society is to be found one of the most vivid written descriptions of Atlanta in the first years of its existence as a city. It is in the form of a diary, written by Dr. William N. White, an honor graduate of Hamilton College, who moved to the new Georgia city from New York, with the purpose of establishing a school here. Later he removed to Athens, where he aided William C. Richards, owner and editor of the Athens Gazette, and operated a book store. White also wrote and published a book on southern agriculture and later owned and edited "The Southern Cultivator."

He died in Athens in 1887. His diary of his experiences in early Atlanta starts with the date of October 21, 1847, when he wrote:

"The center of the northern part of the state of Georgia lies the county of DeKalb, of which the county seat is Decatur. Six miles west of it in the midst of oak and chestnut forests, is the city of Atlanta. I suppose it can hardly be found on the map, for 18 months ago the first dwelling was commenced."

"It lies at the junction of three great railroads: The State, leading off to the Tennessee river and thence connected by steamboat with the Mississippi; the Central, leading down to Macon and Savannah, and the Georgia to Augusta and Charlotte, and connecting at Augusta with Savannah by steamboats."

"The city now contains 2,500 inhabitants, 30 large stores, two hotels, a number of academies, 150 each; three newspapers, and two schools, one of them taught by a gentleman, and the other by a lady, who teaches A B C's; 187 buildings have been put up this summer within eight months, and more are in progress."

Merchants Lived

In Wood Shanties.
"The woods all around are full of shanties, and the merchants live in them until they can find time to build. The streets are still full of stumps and roots; large chestnut and oak logs are scattered about the streets. The streets are alive with people and the stores full of trade, and bustle. Not a church has yet been built, though the Baptists, Methodists and Episcopalians have each one ready to raise in a short time. Preaching is held in the railroad depot and in the schoolhouses, or 'academies'—as they are called."

"I have thought then that I could not do better than establish myself here while the place is new and so grow up with the people. It is close to the Allegheny mountains and consequently cool and healthy. All northern fruits are raised in the adjacent country and so are all northern crops. Nearly half of the population are 'northern men. Board is cheap,

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Interview NEW YORK, June 27.—A week ago I had a long interview with John Lewis in Hugh Johnson's office in Washington. When the General called up Lewis to suggest the meeting, Lewis said, "I think he is crazy," but agreed to come over and let down his hair. He was sore because I had written that an employer would be a fool to sign a contract with the CIO except under legal compulsion, if that exists, because the CIO was irresponsible and its contracts therefore were not worth a damn.

I think it might rock the baby to report parts of the conversation, because Mr. Lewis said the CIO, far from shirking responsibility, would be glad to accept responsibility, although he did not say in what form.

I do not believe in the use of direct quote in such pieces, because one topic to another and a verbatim account would run on and on like a night watchman's dream. Believe me, though, that Mr. Lewis herein gets none the worst of it, because I was cheered as many others doubtless will be to hear that he thinks labor and industry, when their rights are equalized in a practical way, should become equal factors with equal responsibility to the country.

I had been beefing about labor's refusal to assume responsibility and here was the tough guy of the labor movement insisting that his outfit doesn't refuse but, in due time, will demand it. I asked why he didn't tell the world and thus allay some of the alarm the purposes of the CIO and Mr. Lewis said he had been too busy fighting on a dozen fronts in the field. Matters that can wait will have to wait.

Sensitive John Lewis was sensitive about the ability of CIO contracts, because he is proud of the record of the United Mine Workers, who have never broken an agreement in 30 some years, to hear him tell it. He said, of course, there had been some small disputes and trouble in spots where contracts existed, but that these had been quickly ironed out and settled strictly according to the bond.

As for the breaches of contract in the automobile plants in Michigan, he justly explained that both the bosses and the men were operating in a new and, to them, strange, and rather strained relation, and that both sides were nagging, and would shake down into co-operation as soon as they adjusted themselves to the change.

The union leaders were new to leadership, but this was the fault of the manufacturers themselves, because they had so long bullied, harassed and spied upon those who attempted to develop the talents of leadership.

Why didn't they recognize labor's right to organize ten years ago? In that case the system would have been operating smoothly by now.

Anyway, Mr. Lewis didn't hold with such strikes and, although he condoned them for the reasons stated, he deplored them, as you may be glad to know.

Contracts I didn't say this at the time, because I was worthless don't think very fast, but it has since occurred to me that I was right in saying that a CIO contract isn't worth a damn, or, anyway, not much of a damn. Because, while the law now protects the union and gives the employer a firm pushing around if he utters just one peep against the union to the help, the law still doesn't penalize the union if it breaks an agreement and throw him for a terrible loss by retarding production to which he is financially committed, or by spoiling material in process of manufacture which must be worked while hot, like a soufflé.

So, obviously in the present state of things, with terrible fights in progress over the employer's contention that the CIO is irresponsible, the acceptance of responsibility as urgent as anything else. That having been done, the CIO would be in a position to talk business.

We didn't discuss the closed shop, because I know what he thinks about that and I think he is just as crazy there as he thought I was about the value of CIO agreements.

He is a very tough man and I predict that there will be more bloodshed for and against a free man's constitutional right to stay out of a union and retain his right to earn a living than over all the other issues put together.

We Went to War.

Twenty years ago today three American steamers, Vigilance, Illinois and City of Memphis, were sunk by German submarines. Fifteen members of the first ship were drowned. The captain said it was sunk without warning.

Theodore Roosevelt bared his teeth and declared: "If these are not overt acts of war then Lexington and Bunker Hill were not. Let us face the accomplished fact, admit that Germany is at war with us, and in turn we should engage war on Germany with all our energy and courage and regain the right to look the whole world in the eye without flinching."

The State Department and White House, shocked by news of the sinkings, agreed that the United States and Germany were near a state of war.

No Man Can Have a Just Right That Other Men Are Denied

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Much of our wrong thinking results from the practice of confusing jobs and people. Peace officers, for example, are regarded as a distinct species called cops—not ordinary human beings who earn their living as policemen.

In ancient times, each individual was born into a certain recognized class and thus endowed with certain social and civil rights. He could do this or that because he was born this or that. The system still survives in England and some other lands, and a tendency to employ it still survives.

But in a free land, where all men are theoretically equal, there can be no such thing as a class or group right but only rights that are common to all.

You hear much about the rights of capital and labor, but capital and labor, as such, have no rights. Neither the Constitution nor any statute confers rights on either, nor are such rights conceded by the common opinion of mankind.

Has labor the right to strike? The question doesn't make sense. If a free man has the right to quit his job, the right is not sacrificed when he calls himself labor. To question any free man's right to stop work is to deny his freedom.

Has labor the right to interfere with the mails? Well, have you the right to stop a mail carrier and forbid him to deliver a package to your neighbor? If you have the right, every other citizen has. If you have no such right, how could any of your equals have it?

Has labor the right of collective bargaining? Why not? Haven't you the right to ask a lawyer or a neighbor to represent you and bargain for you? If one free man has the right, all free men have it.

Has labor the right to arm? To destroy property? To use force against the peace officers? If you, as an individual citizen, have these rights, all other free citizens have them. If you haven't, none has.

There are times when the humane and decent thing is to let excited men exceed their rights, if the alternative is bloodshed. If your brother-in-law, being drunk, enters your yard and threatens to crack your head if you come outdoors, he is exceeding his rights and wronging you. If you shoot him, a jury may acquit you; but the sane course is to make allowance for his drunken state and settle the matter when he sobers up.

But whatever may be polite, there can be no question about the definition of rights. This is a free country, where men are equal, and every citizen has every right enjoyed by others and not one single right that others do not share.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Germany Rebuffs.

NEW YORK.—Events in Russia had convinced the British cabinet that the Soviet Union will not make a desirable partner in any international scheme to preserve the peace of Europe. So an invitation was sent to Berlin asking Baron Constantin von Neurath, the Reich's foreign minister, to come and talk things over. England was ready to sit around the table with Germany and come to an understanding. Sentiment in favor of the Reich was running high in British governing circles.

Then something happened. Germany suddenly changed its mind. Lists of Spain with having fired torpedoes at a German battleship. There was no confirmation of this charge, but the German government informed London that it knew for certain that the torpedoes had been fired by a new secret instrument installed on German battleships had recorded the passage of torpedoes through the water. The British admiralty simply arched its eyebrows and doubted the very existence of such an instrument. When Hitler heard of this skepticism, he flew into a tantrum of fury and cancelled the visit of his foreign minister to London.

All England is deeply offended. Herr Hitler, on the other hand, must now prove the allegation about the Loyalist torpedoes and will prove it, no doubt, by bombarding another Spanish port, either Barcelona or Valencia itself. The whole thing is a trick to deal a blow to the Loyalists, who are about to launch their first real army into the field.

Activity in France.

However, at the same time, things are taking place in France. Blum is out and Blum may be back at the helm within a few days, but this time at the head of a cabinet that will assume a different attitude toward the Spanish struggle. In France public opinion deems the whole nonintervention agreement a farce. Italian and German troops and material are simply pouring into Spain, while France observes all the rules with a strictness that excites the admiration of all neutrals.

But the British, too, are sick and tired of the Italian and German word-breaking. If England withdraws from the nonintervention committee, which is not unlikely, not only Italy and Germany are released from their pledge and responsibility as well as France even more openly, but France will also resume her freedom of action. That would mean 20 French divisions in Spain.

Cataclysm Inevitable.

Mussolini will not fight the French army. He cannot. He can lick Ethiopians and Basque peasants, but he cannot fight the French army, not even half the French army or a quarter of the French army. Hitler and Mussolini together would form a formidable foe. But the question is: Is the German army ready to take the field? Experts say it is not. Moreover, the expansionist aims of the

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"We are no other than a moving row of magic, shadow shapes that comes and go 'Round with the sun-illuminated lantern held In midnight by the master of the show."

Assembled in annual convention at Birmingham today are a group of some 300 gentlemen whose bright business is shadowed by the lantern-bound, offering motion pictures of the motion that is magically pictured. They are members of the Southeastern Theater Owners' Association and their very existence in convention is a refreshing consideration. It is refreshing in a day of problems, of dull and dangerous economics, of political wrangles, class struggles and international nose-thumbing, to think of the gracious business of dramatic entertainment, of the lanterns and footlights, of a land of make-believe into which one may enter without becoming engaged. It is refreshing to contemplate an arena where art is something for its own sweet sake, where entertainment is its own good end, where song and dance, stories, tears and smiles, love, hate, joy, sorrow and brave adventure can grip us without binding us, absorb us without defacing us, impress us without enlisting us.

The theater owners of the southeast have their problems, of course, but they stand in public sight for a release from problems and their cue is to be as carefree as they can. This should not be difficult when they think of their progress in terms a little longer than annual. It is still so short a time, after all, since the motion picture which shines in such art and enterprise and profit today was a shabby and eye-straining monotony.

"Just a few years ago," Association President Milton C. Moore, of Jacksonville, reminds us, "theaters were operated in an empty store room, with borrowed seats from the local undertaker or furniture store, a bed sheet for a screen, carbide for the light, a hand-cranked machine for a projector, and with pictures composed of just a few scenes, crudely made and just as crudely presented. A one-reeler was a luxury, and a superspecial feature was a two or three-reeler. But today the motion picture theater is housed in a modern fire-proofed building with all the safeguards of health and sanitation, with the very finest projectors, high intensity carbon arcs for lights, air conditioning, beautifully decorated and managed. There are newscasts with important national and world events brought to view only a few hours or days after they happen. One can hear and see the great people of the world of politics, science, religion, education. There are travel films to take you to far-off Africa, to war-torn Spain, to Alaska, Switzerland and snow-capped mountains. Broadway stage hits are offered with original stars and cast, cartoons in color—and for less than half a dollar."

"We do furnish the relaxation for the world, and along with it we furnish something even greater—education."

We see President Moore and raise him several. The history and present state of the motion picture industry make a thrilling chapter in human progress. The screen has brought both entertainment and light to a million dull and darkened places, and it has never ceased to develop its art even though it has had to wait for recognition in some artistic quarters. Today there are subjects in which the motion picture's portrayal is the only perfect one and others on which the motion picture art is supreme above all others.

Statesmen of the screen, it seems to us, will take care as they lift with the influence of their presentations the tastes and imaginations of the world that they do not at the same time standardize these tastes and cloy these imaginations.

ARCTIC EXPEDITION SAILING IS DELAYED

Failure To Complete Loading of Supplies Defers Departure Few Days.

Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(UP)—Departure of the MacGregor Arctic expedition, scheduled for today, has been postponed until Wednesday or Thursday because of delay in loading supplies, including radio equipment and an outfit which is to be used in flights over the North Pole.

In addition a libel had been filed against the ship by Florence Rouse, of Jersey City, who filed suit for $10,000 damages, on a claim she had been injured April 14 by falling into Newark bay while inspecting the expedition's ship, the General A. W. Greeley. She declared the gangplank had not been protected by a handrail when she visited the vessel. Commander MacGregor declared the suit would be settled out of court.

The primary purpose of the expedition, for which 12 men are cutting themselves loose from civil-

12 GERMAN PASTORS ORDERED TO TRIAL

Bavarian Premier, Meanwhile, Stops Century-Old Subsidies to Churches.

BERLIN, June 27.—(UP)—The Nazi government, striking out again at its Roman Catholic and Protestant church foes, tonight ordered 12 Confessional pastors to stand trial on charges of "incitement to disobedience." They will be arraigned Wednesday in Berlin's summary court.

At the same time, Premier Adolf Wagner, of Bavaria, who has bitterly attacked Pope Pius XI, canceled all voluntary subsidies which the Bavarian state has been paying to Protestant and Catholic church for more than 100 years.

It will be the first time Confessional pastors have been brought to trial, although nearly 50 of them are under arrest. Most of the Confessional pastors were arrested on charges of stirring up opposition to the Nazi church ministry's order of church election on the Nazi proposal to "rewrite" the New Testament and bring the Lutheran church into conformity with Adolf Hitler's policies.

The 12 defendants include divines prominent in Berlin and pastors from the Rhineland, Mecklenburg and Pomerania.

They were expected to plead guilty to charges of violating a Nazi official's decree forbidding them to read from their pulpits the names of persons who left the Confessional ranks and went to the Nazi side.

OFFICIALS 'CLOSE' PARSONS KIDNAPING

Federal, State and Local Authorities List Case as Unsolved Mystery.

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Federal, state, and local authorities announced today they would close the special headquarters from which they have been investigating the disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, Long Island socialite.

"As far as we are concerned this case is in the same category as the Dot King, Collings, and Starr Faithful unsolved mysteries," said Assistant District Attorney Harry Brenner.

Inspector Earl J. Connelley, chief of the corps of federal agents on duty here since Mrs. Parsons vanished from her home June 9, said his headquarters would be closed tomorrow, and investigation of the case continued from the New York office.

Various theories had been advanced since the discovery of a supposed ransom note in the Parsons car demanding $25,000.

Brenner said today the note bore no signature.

Brenner said the state troopers, county and local investigators, and the district attorney of Suffolk county will continue to "watch" the case from their regular offices.

There was no music and no attendants. The size of the hospital room prevented a large audience.

Drouth Regions To Suffer Again By About 1987

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP) The farmers of the great drouth area and the southwestern dust bowl will catch it again in another 40 or 50 years if a Carnegie Institution scientist has sized up Mother Nature correctly.

Dr. Frederick E. Clements, an expert on plant distribution, the weather and cycles of growth, said today that drouths return after fairly regular intervals.

"Having learned that drouth recurs, it is natural to assume that dust storms likewise return with the cycle," he asserted.

Dr. Clements declared the Great Plains are "an unrivaled reservoir" of soil fertility; throughout much of the recent drouth, many experiment stations and progressive farmers continued to harvest good crops.

It is a misconception to think that there was any great exodus from the area, he said.

FORD AGAIN FACES OFFICIAL DISPUTE WITH U. S. AGENCY

NLRB Complaint Recalls
Magna's Challenge of NRA Code Authority.

DETROIT, June 27.—(AP)—A complaint by the National Labor Relations Board put the Ford Motor Company today in conflict with a government agency for the second time within a few years.

The huge independent industrial organization and Henry Ford's own "go it alone" philosophy face an official dispute which recalls Ford's challenging refusal to sign a code under the National Recovery Act.

Unlike the NRA controversy, Ford has not openly challenged the NLRB.

Neither Ford nor any of his spokesmen could be reached for comment on the labor board's charge of "malicious and brutal assaults" on organizers of the United Automobile Workers of America and unfair labor practice.

Sources close to the company, however, indicated today a belief that it undoubtedly would file a reply to the charges of "intimidation, coercion and brutality" put in a formal appearance at the hearing called by the board for July 6, and await the final ruling.

These sources intimated also that this would be followed by court action that might test the board's findings in the supreme court.

The nine-page NLRB complaint is based partly on the clash May 26 when UAWA members were beaten and chased away while attempting to distribute union literature at the gates of the Ford Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn.

in the Rebel Balearic port of Iviza on May 29 and 31 seven were killed, Germany decided to issue a warning "to make plain to the Valencia Bolsheviks the time was past when Germany could be treated thusly."

Then Hitler added with sarcasm: "But writers abroad pointed out that modern times provided institutions by which such things could be settled peacefully and, because of this, we decided to leave nothing untried."

"Hence, we returned to the commission of international control, hoping the theories expressed abroad would come true."

"Then came the incident of four torpedoes fired at the Leipzig. We expected international solidarity for the joint protection of peace would now be effective and we demanded a joint naval demonstration."

"But the treatment of our demand showed what Germany must expect if she left the fate of the German nation to international deliberations."

He added that, although Germany wants to live in peace "with all nations," she has grown "skeptical of international promises."

PARTLY CLOUDY SKIES FORECAST FOR TODAY

Partly cloudy, with scattered thundershowers in the afternoon, is the weather prospect for Atlanta today, it was predicted at Candler airport weather office last night.

Temperatures are due to approximate those of yesterday, when the mercury climbed from 70 degrees to 96 degrees. Forecasters added the expected thundershowers may bring a measure of relief from the high temperatures.

England Steals Hitler's Thunder At Gigantic Rally

CASSEL, Germany, June 27.—(AP)—England stole the show at a rally of 150,000 German war veterans today when two British speakers made impassioned pleas for understanding between Britain and Germany.

Under the influence of their appeal to the big open-air gathering closed with cheers for King George VI—an unusual proceeding in Germany, where, since the consolidation of Nazi power, all public demonstrations regularly close with cheers for Adolf Hitler only.

No foreigner was scheduled to speak at the rally. However, immediately after the officially approved program was finished, Colonel Reinhard announced two British guests would speak. They were Colonel George A. Crossfield, representing the British Legion, and Captain Roy Fyers, personal adjutant of the Duke of Connaught.

Colonel Crossfield emphasized regardless of any differences between the two nations "your comrades of the British Legion have the deepest respect for the German front fighters."

Captain Fyers announced he brought by special command of the Duke of Connaught a decoration for the flag of the Duke's old German regiment—the Zeithen Hussars. When the decoration was affixed to the regimental standard the veterans shouted their approval.

'VANISHED' YOUTH DROPS FROM AIR

Tennessee Says He Wanted
'To Start Life Anew.'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 27.—(AP) C. M. (Pat) Murphy, 17-year-old University of Mississippi student who disappeared at Oxford, Miss., two weeks ago, alighted from an airplane here today to end a 4,000-mile trip originally intended to "start life anew."

He was greeted by his young wife of five months, his father, C. M. Murphy, prominent Belzoni, Miss., attorney, and other relatives.

His parents and his wife learned of the youth's whereabouts several days ago when his mother received a letter from him from San Francisco. He wrote asking his father's permission to enlist in the army.

The father persuaded him to return and "talk things over" in a long distance telephone conversation.

JAMBOREE GROWS

15,000 Boy Scouts Gather at Washington Camp.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP) Boy Scouts from all sections of the United States and 24 foreign countries continued to arrive tonight, bringing the jamboree encampment population up to 15,000, approximately half of the expected number of campers.

The Scouts, wearing their khaki uniforms and many carrying packs and other camping equipment, gathered for the week-long national encampment starting Wednesday. Special train, bus, airplane and private automobiles brought most of them. Others from near-by localities hiked into camp.

The camp, sprawled over Washington monument grounds and along the Memorial highway running to Mt. Vernon, will be divided into sections each accommodating more than a thousand Scouts. These sections are connected with headquarters through a series of telephones.

According to police reports, the youth was traveling east on Johnson road when the crash occurred.

TROLLEY BUSES OPEN NEW SERVICE

streets, the point where the merchants will gather to welcome the buses. George West, chairman of the celebration, will speak and preside at a barbecue which follows the talks.

Probably the first executive session aboard any public conveyance was held yesterday by the officers of the West End Businessmen's Association on one of the trackless trolley buses en route to College Park.

Roy E. Warren, president, gathered his executive board around him and a resolution praising the power company for installation of the new type transportation was unanimously adopted.

Cumbersome street cars faded from the picture on the suburban routes at 8 o'clock Saturday night and the trackless trolleys took over at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. For the time being the motor buses, which cared for transportation during the interim of completing trolley lines on the routes, will continue to carry passengers to and from the city to Hapeville. Power company officials said a stretch of unpaved street in Hapeville will delay the trackless trolley being put in regular operation on this line for several weeks.

Quiet Trolleys. Guests aboard the new conveyances yesterday exclaimed at the quiet smoothness of the trackless trolleys. Instead of the noisy start of the street car and the jerky take-off of motor buses, the trackless trolleys glide away with hardly a sound. Fifteen degrees of forward speed eliminates jerks in starting. The new electric buses attain a speed of 50 miles per hour, weave in and out of traffic like an automobile and pull over to the curb to take on and let off passengers.

"One great advantage the trackless trolleys have is their flexibility in traffic," W. E. Mitchell, vice president of the power company, explained. "They can veer 12 feet to either side of the trolley lines, thereby passing slow traffic and letting speedy traffic over to the curb, and traffic in the rear can pass safely to the left of the buses."

40 to 50 Passengers. The new buses, large enough to accommodate 40 to 50 passengers, have comfortable upholstered seats. They are only half as heavy as street cars. Their motors are operated by electricity supplied from double trolleys. Two trolleys are needed because the rubber tires eliminate a ground for the electricity.

On the official East Point bus yesterday were Mayor J. R. Parham and R. F. Thompson, a former mayor of East Point.

"I was mayor when the first street car was operated to East Point," said Thompson. "Now I have lived to see the last one."

City and county officials pointed out that the old street car tracks along the side of Lee street are to be taken up and the ground paved. Traffic congestion on this thoroughfare will be greatly relieved by widening the street, they said.

Among the well known guests on the first official trip yesterday were J. A. Ragdale, chairman of the county commission; Commissioners C. R. Adams, George F. Longino and Ed Almand; Councilmen Charles Chosewood and John T. Marler; Frank R. Fling, clerk of the county commission; Fire Chief O. J. Parker; Deputy Sheriff

James Bazemore, Harold Sheats, county attorney; Vice President Mitchell and Jackson P. Dick, division manager, acted as hosts for the power company.

TO PRESS BOYCOTT

Church Groups Asked To Join Anti-Nazi Drive.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Headed by Samuel Untermyer, a group of anti-Nazi leaders moved tonight to extend a boycott of German-made goods, and to seek support of Protestant and Catholic groups.

Delegates from 109 national Jewish and Gentile organizations, conferring under auspices of the non-sectarian Anti-Nazi League, headed by Untermyer, voted to designate the league as a clearing house of boycott activities.

Gerhart H. Seger, once a member of the German Reichstag, and editor of the anti-Nazi organ, Neue Volks-Zeitung, said the German government under Hitler was "deliberately spreading propaganda" to promote dictatorship in the United States, and to "establish control" over German-Americans.

County Commissioner Ed Almand, Mayor J. R. Cathy, of Hapeville, and J. A. Ragdale, chairman of the county commission, left to right, cheer the advent of speedier public transportation as they hang out the windows of one of the new trackless trolley buses. Regular service to Hapeville will start in a few weeks when street paving is completed along the way.

50 TANKS LOCKED IN ROBOT BATTLE

16 miles from Madrid's gates, and Vacia Madrid.

The Madrid-Valencia highway, the "life line" of the capital's food and munitions supplies and communication with the Loyalist government at Valencia, remained in government hands tonight.

The attack, by swift tanks on the ground and black-tipped bombers overhead, was another major effort on Franco's part to encircle Madrid in preparation for a smashing attack from all sides.

Above the tanks, crawling over the rolling slopes of the Jarama olive groves, fleet Russian "chaos" pursuit planes—fought superior numbers of Rebel bombers and fighting ships.

Troops Follow Tanks. A fleet of more than 20 "rolling fortresses," 25-ton tanks with heavy caterpillar traction and a tank expert trotting along at the side of each one, rumbled up from the rear.

The men of the International Brigade fell back behind the Russian tanks, which met the enemy tanks along a by-road near Moratade Tajuna, 18 miles southeast of Madrid.

The 25-ton Loyalist tanks, with small field guns above their forward turrets and their sides spiked with machine gun barrels, traveled at a speed of nearly 40 miles an hour, driving the Italian tanks back by superior maneuvering and gun power.

At one time the Loyalist tanks were stretched in a mile-long line of defense, their guns laying down a broad curtain of death.

DYNAMITERS WIPE OUT 1,500 REBELS IN AMBUSH

HENDAYE, Frano - Spanish Frontier, June 27.—(UP)—A Rebel advance column of 1,500 men was destroyed by Asturian "dynamiters" in an ambush, six miles west of Bilbao, Loyalist frontier dispatches said tonight.

The Marxist Asturians, striking out through the Aguera valley foothills, surrounded the insurgent column and began hurling home-made dynamite bombs. Then they closed in with knives and fought hand-to-hand.

Dispatches said that "hardly a man of the enemy column escaped."

POET'S MOTHER DIES. VANCOUVER, June 27.—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. Robert Service, 83-year-old mother of Robert W. Service, poet chronicler of Yukon and World War tales, died here today.

HEAT WAVE CAUSES SCATTERED DEATHS

Birmingham Registers 99, Little Rock 98 and Memphis 97 1-2.

By the Associated Press.

Scattered heat deaths and prostrations yesterday blackened the record of a summer officially less than a week old but already turning on scorching temperatures.

In Birmingham, Ala., where officers saw a relationship between increased emotional crimes and the hot weather, the deaths of a white man and a negro were attributed to heat prostration. The city had a 99 degree maximum yesterday.

San Francisco, which registered its hottest June 26 in 61 years with 87 degrees, recorded Saturday, reported one dead of a heat-induced heart attack.

Rain fell in New Orleans for the fifteenth day this month. The city, with an 88-degree Sunday afternoon, had one death from heat prostration during the last week.

It was cooler at St. Louis where the mercury touched 94 Saturday. The range, after an early morning rain, was in the high seventies. One died there of the heat several days ago.

Little Rock, Ark., had its hottest day of the year yesterday with a 99. Memphis had an unofficial reading of 97.2 degrees Sunday with an unofficial 96 recorded in Atlanta. Chattanooga, Tenn., had 93-degree weather.

Temperatures in the Carolinas were in the middle nineties.

Gallstone Troubles Explained

Kansas City Doctor Gives Good Advice to Sufferers from Irritation and Congestion of Gall-Bladder.

Sufferers from gallstones and gall-bladder irritation and congestion, especially those whose suffering has about driven them to despair will welcome the news that the agonizing pains and distress due to these conditions are now being safely and effectively treated without surgery.

To Dr. E. E. Paddock, a Kansas City physician, who for 30 years has concentrated on the conditions due to gall-bladder irritation, gallstones, and sluggish liver, belongs the credit for a carefully formulated system of palliative medicinal treatment that many scores of sufferers the country over declare has brought them such welcome relief and such improved conditions that surgery may never be necessary for them.

According to Dr. Paddock, surgery is resorted to in many hundreds of cases where palliative medical treatment should have been used. It is Dr. Paddock's claim that surgery should be used only in emergency case, and that following surgery gallstones may form again, which may permit the irritation and congestion to start up again and become just as painful and dangerous as before the operation.

Dr. Paddock is a strong advocate of the use of medicines to relieve the pain and dangerous illness attending these conditions. His book fully explains his easy-to-take system of treatment which he sends to the patient's home, and offers an abundance of convincing evidence of its efficiency.

Anyone who is afflicted, or is suspicious of any congestion in the gall tract, should send at once for Dr. Paddock's booklet. A copy will be sent free to any who request it. In his literature the doctor tells how he first became interested in these painful conditions, how his interest intensified as he pursued his fascinating studies in this branch of medical practice. He tells the story of how his practice continued to widen and his patients continued to increase until today they are in every state in the Union. He explains the symptoms by which the condition may be recognized before it reaches an acute stage—and why these symptoms, unheeded, may cause indescribable suffering and danger. If you are afflicted with such conditions just fill in and mail the coupon below and the booklet will be sent free and without any obligation whatsoever. Send for it today.

NEW DEAL DEFICIT AT LOWEST POINT, COLLECTIONS HIGH

But End of Fiscal Year Finds Record National Debt of $36,300,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Roosevelt administration closes its books for the 1937 fiscal year Wednesday with three new records inscribed—the smallest deficit since the New Deal's advent, an all-time high national debt, and the highest revenue collections since the World War.

Although final figures for the year will not be available until Friday, latest treasury statistics indicate the deficit will aggregate less than $3,000,000,000. The national debt, meanwhile, appeared almost certain to approximate $36,300,000,000, almost $1,300,000,000 above the peak anticipated by the President in his January budget message.

A few weeks ago the public debt skyrocketed to $36,600,000,000 because of the treasury's $800,000,000 financing operations, but redemption of about $300,000,000 in short-term bills reduced the total.

Income Way Up.
There are statistical indications the government's income for the fiscal year will surpass by at least $50,000,000 the $5,224,000,000 expected in last April's revised budget.

The June 24 statement, the latest available, showed receipts aggregating $5,213,031,412, already exceeding by more than a billion dollars the 1936 boom-time collections, and highest since the war period.

The government's spending for the fiscal year will exceed $8,000,000,000 but very likely will be held within the revised budget estimate of $8,182,000,000.

Other notable developments during the fiscal year that will be reflected in the year-end accounting include:

1. Borrowing of approximately $2,250,000,000 in fresh funds, lowest new money financing for any fiscal year since the Roosevelt administration took office.

2. Beginning of the gold "sterilization" program, designed to aid in preventing undue credit inflation.

3. Failure of income taxes to come up to expectations, resulting in a treasury drive against alleged tax-dodgers and in an economy edict of President Roosevelt.

The 1937 deficit, lowest since 1931 when the government spending exceeded income by more than $801,959,000, was considered significant in that it indicated the beginning of an era of economy. It was in marked contrast with the 1936 deficit of $4,763,841,643, highest incurred for any New Deal fiscal year.

Treasury statistics indicate a decrease of almost $700,000,000 in spending as compared with the 1936 fiscal year.

TELEPHONE RATES TO BE DISCUSSED

Conference Today May Settle Question.

Members of the Public Service Commission and representatives of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company will confer today on an impending hearing for a reduction of telephone rates.

The hearing, scheduled for late July, involves all rates in 66 selected Georgia cities, and special charges and rates throughout Georgia.

"The telephone company requested the conference," Assistant Attorney General Duckworth said, "with the suggestion an agreement might be reached without holding the hearing."

CONVICT MURDERED IN TENNESSEE PEN

Stabbed in Jugular Vein, Officials Say.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 27.—(UP)—Mack Mathis, 42, Newport, Tenn., serving a five-year sentence in the state penitentiary, was stabbed to death in the prison dining room Friday, prison officials revealed yesterday.

Institutions Director E. Marvin Williamson said the prisoner was stabbed in the jugular vein in plain view of several other convicts. Identity of the assailant was not learned, however, he said. Mathis' death was the second at the state prison in the last week. On Thursday a prisoner was electrocuted while working in the penitentiary laundry.

SUNDAY DESIGNATED AS CITIZENSHIP DAY

July Fourth will be celebrated by the churches of Georgia next Sunday as citizenship day in a concerted move announced yesterday by the Rev. Louie D. Newton.

Ministers' unions in Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Columbus and Atlanta adopted the plan last week to preach sermons emphasizing the teachings of the Bible in the building of an enduring civilization.

Dr. Newton said letters of approval have come from every portion of the state.

POISON DOSE IS FATAL TO ROBERT MACKIN, 34

Robert Mackin, of 568 Capitol avenue, died from the effects of a self-administered poison dose yesterday morning, according to Grady hospital reports.

He was admitted to the hospital Saturday morning. Mr. Mackin was 34 years old.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. B. Mackin; five brothers, R. M. Rubin, R. F., Ralph and Roland Mackin, and two sisters, Mrs. Fay Padgett and Mrs. Irene McMahon.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the West Side Funeral Home.

Puppy Admitted to Membership in Litter of Kittens

"Mammy," a tabby cat owned by Mrs. J. E. Grady, of Bolton road, is shown above nursing one of her kittens and "Bugger," a black and brown puppy she has adopted. Bugger is about six weeks old—the same age approximately as Mammy's litter of kittens, to which he has been admitted in full membership.

Cat, Mother of Six, Adopts Puppy, Who Joins Litter Sans Argument

"Mammy" has six kittens and one puppy. The kittens are hers by right of birth, but the pup, christened "Bugger," considers himself no less one of the brood albeit his membership is by adoption.

Mammy is a pure white tabby cat belonging to Mrs. J. E. Grady, who lives on the Bolton road just off the Bankhead highway. About six weeks ago she presented her owner with a litter of kittens—by no means her first.

Then a few days ago a neighbor gave Mrs. Grady a black and brown pup, about five weeks old. For a day or two the newcomer was treated as the stranger he was in the new backyard, but when his novelty wore off, Mammy's maternal instinct began to assert itself.

She noticed Bugger's forlorn expression as he dolefully watched her kittens at mealtime, and when he finally became bold enough to give her a questioning nudge she readily capitulated, and allowed him to join the party.

Now he is the first one in line when the dinner bell rings, and he is fatter than any of his adopted brothers and sisters.

Detective Gains Confessions
Vindicating Prisoner in Attack Case.

DENVER, June 27.—(AP)—A keen-eyed detective's glance at a rogue's gallery photograph brought hope of vindication today to Ernest Mattice, 33-year-old candy salesman, convicted of rape and sent to prison under "two life terms."

After seeing the photograph by chance, a month ago, Sergeant Lee Raedel began a secret investigation which he said led to confessions proving Mattice was an innocent victim of mistaken identity.

James E. Childers, captain of detectives, said Frank Neill, 26-year-old ex-convict, and Earl Arthur Parker, 21, had confessed the crime, an assault upon a 22-year-old waitress.

District Attorney Carroll said he would file charges in the case tomorrow against Neill and Parker and ask that they be arraigned as soon as possible.

The rogue's gallery picture Raedel saw, he explained after the "break" in the case, was a photograph of Neill.

Confronted by the woman, Childers said, Neill admitted guilt and signed a confession implicating Parker.

Bee Flies Into Auto, Five Land in Hospital

TAMPA, Fla., June 27.—(AP)—A bee that flew through the window of a moving automobile and attempted to sting a 10-month-old baby today sent five persons to a Tampa hospital.

Out for a Sunday ride, Lamar Sawyer, driver of the car, saw the bee fly in the window and light on his daughter, Joan, beside him.

"I tried to brush it off before it stung her," he told hospital attendants, "but I must have jerked the steering wheel. Before I knew it, we were across the road and in a ditch."

Sawyer was not injured, but those receiving hospital attention were his wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Thomas and Mrs. Alma Giles, who suffered possible internal injuries.

Your Figure, Sir!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

RECONDITIONING PERIOD AIDS BUSINESS AND PROFESSION.

A man can do good work 11 months out of the year, but not 12. You must take time for outdoor exercise and sports, to balance the steady grind. A reconditioning period is essential to efficiency.

No one realizes more keenly the necessity for this period of outdoor activity than the opera singers. Now that weight has come to be recognized as a health factor, they wage continual battles to keep their poundage at normal. Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan basso, puts it this way:

"Musicians or business men, you have to keep in training, just the same as baseball players and prize fighters."

Mr. Pinza began his professional career as a bicycle racer, and he has had enough experience at keeping fit to appreciate its value in any career. He still likes bicycling, but, for the average business man, suggests long walks, regular golfing and swimming as often as possible.

Mr. Pinza's program is typical of the summer vacations of most of the opera singers who appreciate the importance of normal weight in the extension of careers and life expectancy. Mario Chamlee, leading American tenor of the Metropolitan, works off any tendency toward excess weight at his summer retreat, where acres of lawn provide ample opportunity for exercise with the mower. He likes to work in the gardens, and his overalls figure is frequently mistaken for that of the hired man. He also enjoys walking and once or twice a week goes for a workout along the country roads, running for a mile or two. It's part of his daily schedule to work in his basement gymnasium for half an hour, making use of the rowing machine, punching bags and weights which have been installed.

Reconditioning with outdoor activity.

Charles Kullman, tenor, learned about keeping fit when he was a student at Yale, where his enthusiasm centered in amateur boxing. He still skips rope every day and is relying on this exercise to take off the five pounds he wants to lose before going to Hollywood, where he is to appear in a forthcoming production. After 15 minutes of rope-skipping, Mr. Kullman takes a cold shower and a brisk rubdown. Then he is ready for 18 holes of golf, almost a daily pastime with this sports and exercise enthusiast.

Lauritz Melchior, whose giant Norse physique is almost as famous as his heroic tenor voice, depends upon long hunting trips, mostly afoot, to get him into shape for the opera seasons at the Metropolitan, Covent Garden and Paris. Mr. Melchior says: "I don't believe in fancy health routines. If you lead a happy, healthy life, that is what matters." However, as the result of his summer's healthful activity, Mr. Melchior usually arrives back in the United States weighing around 20 pounds less than at the end of the season. That's what outdoor activity does—it tends to bring one down to normal weight.

In addition to a vacation period, the business man stands a better chance of staying in condition and doing good work by spending the week-ends outdoors.

Bridal Flowers Are Important

Joan Bennett, in bridal array, carries calla lilies, while flower girl, in ice blue, carries basket filled with pastel colored posies; left above, French flower girl basket of blue larkspur and roses; right, bridal bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids.

By MRS. BERT S. McDONALD, Central Press Flower Stylist.

Today every bride wants her wedding to be above the commonplace, and properly styled flowers play a most important part in bringing this about.

After the bride-to-be has planned her wedding, chosen her bridal attendants, selected the type of gowns she and her bridesmaids will wear and the color scheme she wishes to carry out in her wedding party—it is important that she consult her florist on the question of flowers and their styling.

When selecting wedding flowers, two important considerations should be taken into account—the stature of the bride and the type of gown she is to wear.

For the stately bride who wears rich bridal satin, the time-honored shower bouquet is always in good taste. For the petite and dainty bride, who wears a fluffy, girlish dress, no bridal bouquet is so well suited as the demure colonial type.

Bride Chooses. While, according to bridal etiquette, the purchasing of the wedding flowers is the groom's responsibility, it is, of course, the bride's privilege to choose the kind and type of flowers she desires.

Calla lilies are especially appropriate for a formal wedding. In place of the traditional arm bouquet, callas are now combined with rich satin ribbon and fashion-

Tap dancing's a good recipe for popularity. You'll be invited everywhere when the word spreads that your lively taps pep up a party.

And you needn't spill the secret that you learned your clever steps at home from simple diagrams.

It's easy. There are only six tap steps to learn. Combine these six steps in various ways—to different rhythms—and presto! you've a dozen fascinating dances for your stock in trade.

See how simple it is from the diagrams shown here. For the straight tap: 1, raise the right foot a few inches from the floor; 2, strike the ball of the foot against the floor by stamping directly downward. Be careful that the heel does not touch the floor. Practice with the left foot, too.

For the heel tap: 1, raise the right foot upward; 2, strike the heel sharply against the floor with beeline inches. Ask also for the "Man-Size Reducing Menus." Write to Ida Jean Kain, care The Atlanta Constitution, for this leaflet. Enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hollywood Today

By HAROLD HEFFERMAN

HOLLYWOOD IS BETTING SIMONE SIMON IS "OUT."

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—The art of film ballyhoo does not rate with the steel and automotive industries as big business, but it is a brisk and spectacular trade. Its function is the transforming of $15-a-week salesgirls into $5,000-a-week stars.

Conservative estimators conclude that press agents spend close to $5,000,000 yearly in the transformation process, averaging $200,000 per subject.

Incidentally, it costs five times more to publicize a girl than a young man. Reason: Men require less costly photographs, need practically no wardrobe and develop much better when they are permitted to grow popular by easy stages.

Studios seem to have been extremely fortunate in seizing fitting subjects on which to lavish their costly campaigns. Only a scattered few have proved unwise investments.

The one to blow up with the loudest report of all was Anna Sten, the Russian importation who cost Samuel Goldwyn approximately $2,000,000.

Now another extravagantly exploited bubble shows signs of bursting. Career-checkers are busy wagging busy tongues these days, wondering if Twentieth Century-Fox is about to wipe Simone Simon off its starring lists and charge off a publicity loss of close to $250,000.

No actress of modern talkie times was given a more elaborate build-up than this French actress when she reported to the Sanuck studio some 18 months ago. But in spite of it all she has proved herself only a mediocre box office attraction.

It is an open secret that the studio cannot find stories suitable to her restricted talents, and although her contract option was taken up just before her departure two weeks ago for Europe many declare this was merely a gesture—and that Simone, never particularly fond of Hollywood or its people, will not return to this country.

Simone has been a first-class enigma to her sponsors from the moment she first stepped onto their lot. Overly sensitive and utterly unfamiliar with the language and customs of her new associates, she threw a double guard about herself. She refused to lend the slightest co-operation to those who had been assigned to the difficult task of making her overnight a world-famous film figure.

She refused to be photographed and she walked out on interviewers. Her obvious lack of interest in mastering English was the one thorn that pricked the studio deeper than all others. Simone spoke the language little better when she left than on the day she reported for work.

Her present predicament is only indirectly due to temperament. It has now narrowed down to the point where her ability as an actress has become the issue. Critics and fans in the main were disappointed by her performance in "Seventh Heaven."

Hopeful that an entirely new type of characterization might have a restorative effect, the studio then decided to make a comedienne out of Simone. But it had to yank her out of "Dance of the Vagabonds" after two days of shooting.

Ann Southern was brought in to replace her in the part of a "typical American girl."

It was after this debacle she decided on that long tour of Europe—and cold-hearted Hollywood is offering odds she won't return.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

BUSINESS OF EATING AT ODD HOUSE.

There will be no special room to be designated and used exclusively as a dining room at Odd House. Oh, we enjoy eating well enough, too, perhaps, and that is one reason why there will be no dining room. The space slaving builders usually give to the dining room will be used for the library at Odd House. Contrasted with the excluded austerity of the conventional dining room an honest-to-goodness library with real books, globe, dictionary, encyclopedia, maps and the like, makes an ideal place to entertain dinner guests. And heaven forbid that any guest at Odd House shall ever be baited with finger-bowl or doily.

At one end of the kitchen a space nearly or quite the size of the kitchen proper will be reserved for the everyday business of eating—snacks, lunches, breakfasts, dinners when just ourselves or intimate friends are dining. While it is possible of course to serve a good meal in a starchy dining-room extravagantly and impressively fitted with impedimenta and whatnots, I cannot recall ever having enjoyed a feed in such an environment. Maybe this is merely because I'd rather not remember such occasions—anyway, you can see why there shall be no dining room at Odd House. This end of the kitchen to be used for the business of eating will open upon whatever pleasant outdoor aspect, patio, garden or yard the building plan affords; that we may have coffee or the whole meal served out there or the hired man can enjoy his crackers and milk out there between games, so to speak. Games of what? Never mind, you wouldn't know unless you have played the ancient game of bowls in a serious way.

Whether the fuel used for cooking is coal, wood, kerosene, gasoline, charcoal or gas, the stove will be covered by an ample cowl with a vent passing straight up from the cowl out through the roof to the open air to carry products of combustion, smoke, fumes, steam and odors out of the house. If the vent pipe cannot pass straight up high enough to insure a good updraft, a suction fan will be installed in it to draw the vapors and odors out of the kitchen.

All taps or faucets in the kitchen sink, as throughout Odd House, will be operated by foot pedal.

All coffee grounds will be emptied down the kitchen sink drain for garbage and disposed of it through the kitchen sink drain in the most sanitary possible way. This practice has been found satisfactory, does not tend to clog the drain but on the contrary keeps it clear, and does away with the objectionable garbage receptacle and the nuisance of the garbage collector.

Only tap water will be used for drinking purposes, and an electric water cooler separate from the refrigerator. A water softener will be installed to soften the tap water for bathing and laundry purposes.

A Cooling, Lasting Cologne In an Attractive Steamer Trunk

By LILLIAN MAE.

Never have colognes been more popular than they are today. After all, is there anything more soothing to frayed nerves or more refreshing for that heat-tuckered-out, droopy feeling?

I have for you today one of my favorites which, while not new itself, has come out in a most attractive, new gown.

The uses of the cologne are many and the generous-sized bottle, which incidentally would be quite ornamental to your dressing table, is priced at a figure which is far from frightening.

Applied directly to the body—on the wrists, the earlobes, the hair and the neck, it gives off a delicate and lasting sweetness. Or, sprayed over the body after the bath, before dressing, it leaves one with that feeling of exhilaration, luxury and well-being that buoy the spirits to the highest.

Another suggestion—sprinkle a bit in your bath water and relax under its light, soothing scent.

Now that the thermometer is stalled in it to draw the vapors and odors out of the kitchen.

All taps or faucets in the kitchen sink, as throughout Odd House, will be operated by foot pedal.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Friday.—After bidding goodbye to my guests yesterday morning, I flew back to New York and met two friends for lunch. After lunch I helped one of them select the furniture which she is placing in the school library at Arthurdale, West Virginia.

Her mother was very much interested in the project there and, ever since her death, this friend has been doing certain things in memory of her mother which she felt her mother would have liked to do. She is going to furnish the school library, which will be a meeting place for young and old. It seems to me a wonderful thing to keep alive the interest of someone you have loved by continuing your own interest in the things they cared about.

Last evening I took Anna, John, and some of their friends to the theater. When you come to New York from other places in the United States, you naturally feel you want to see such plays as you have heard much about, and so I chose "You Can't Take It With You." I have already told you how much I was entertained by this play when I first saw it. Last night I enjoyed watching the keen amusement of my children who seemed to catch every point which had appealed to me.

Afterwards we all went over to the Waldorf-Astoria to see my little friend, Roberta Jonay, open in a new engagement there.

This morning my children are devoting themselves entirely to business and so I am spending the day in Hyde Park. I like New York City, probably because I was born and brought up there, and I can always find something I want to do, but at this season of the year, I would rather have one hour in the country than a whole day in any city. As I motored up to Hyde Park, I kept thinking of how delightful it is that we now have parkways which are so beautifully landscaped and laid out so we may get glimpses of the best of our scenery wherever we are.

The Belgian ambassador spoke of our park systems the other night at dinner and said he hoped to take the Belgian prime minister's wife over the Skyline drive in Virginia, which he considers a very beautiful trip. In years gone by I have driven over many of the beautiful drives in Europe, but I think we can match their scenery with scenery of our own in many parts of this country. Sometimes, because of our great spaces, it seems even more majestic and grand.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I have always felt that I was one girl who could face the facts bravely and sensibly but when one falls in love one loses that confidence. If I am on a cold trail please tell me and quickly before I am badly hurt. He thrills at my touch. He has confidence in my judgment and relies on it. He pays me three times as much attention as he pays any other girl but fights falling in love with me. Here's a sample: "I am seeing too much of you, we must make our dates less frequent; for I don't want to get married." Being temperamental, I have lost patience several times and scolded and brought on a penitent mood in him. More and more these misunderstandings arise to spoil an otherwise pleasant evening. Am I irritable because my love is not returned? I don't think I know my true feelings, but what girl can be sure she has concealed her feelings? L. W. B.

Wants Advice on Changes in Her Bedroom Decoration.

Esther H. is about to start some changes in her house and wants advice. First, there is her bedroom—maple furniture, a room sized machine hooked rug, very nice candlewick spreads thickly tufted in white with full fringe. These are the elements that she must keep as is. She can have the walls painted a fresh and she will get new curtains, dressing table petticoat and slip cover for the easy chairs.

The main thing that perplexes her is how to get an effect of individuality with that beginning.

Mildly Modern.

"I could go ahead and do the room over in conventional early American style," but I want something different and fresh looking. Would I be absolutely crazy to try to strive for a slightly modern effect?

Not in the least! In fact, we'd be all in favor. What about three walls in cocoa brown and the third window wall in palest green, tailored sheer curtains in pale green and a tailored sheer green skirt for the dressing table? Now then, have your chair covered in pale green linen and add white lamps and soft green picture frames.

Still another idea would be to do the room all in creamy white—walls, curtains, picture frames, dressing table skirt and slip cover for the chair. (The way to make a white slip cover seem practical is to have a change of two so that you can tub them often as you do your summer dresses.) This white setting for maple would have a very smooth modern effect with the hooked rug if you select an interesting textured white fabric for curtains and dressing table skirt, such as white shantung, for instance, and possibly sailcloth for the slip covers.

More Brazen.

Dark blue-green walls are awfully smart with maple, especially with white accessories and white curtains. Or if you'd like to be really brazen, have the walls of nerve, try maroon walls with palest powder blue accessories!

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for the writer's bulletin "Recipes for the new Wall Colors." It contains directions for mixing the decorative colors.

Visit Here of Newspaper Couple Recalls Mrs. Dean's Recent Honor

By Sally Forth.

THE PRESENCE of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Dean, of Sanford, Fla., in the city recalls the presentation of a brilliant pageant, entitled "Golden Harvest," written by Mrs. Dean and presented recently by the Florida State Horticultural Society at its semi-centennial celebration at Silver Springs, Fla. A romance of Florida citrus fruits, the pageant depicts the important events in the history of that state's citrus from its introduction into the state by the Spaniards in 1565 to the present date.

The presentation showed a great amount of research work done by the pageant's author, most of which was gained at Rollins College and at the University of Florida. At the latter institution, Mrs. Dean had the assistance of Harold Hume, well-known writer and professor of horticulture at the Florida University.

Not only did Mrs. Dean produce the pageant in written form but she also took the part of the feminine reader in the colorful presentation in which she appeared as a page in Elizabethan costume. The production received highest praise from the hundreds of spectators as well as from newspaper critics and Florida historians. One of the nation's leading motion picture companies considered the production of such significance that a film was made of the brilliant spectacle to be released in newsreels throughout the country.

Like her well-known husband, who is editor and publisher of the Sanford Daily Herald, and son of the veteran newspaper figure, S. Bobo Dean, former owner of the Miami Daily News, Mrs. Dean is also prominent in the newspaper field. Her column, "Candle Light," which appears in three leading Florida newspapers, namely, the Sanford Herald, the Orlando Sentinel and the Orlando Porter-Star, is widely read and shows the columnist's remarkable versatility. It is somewhat of an as-you-like-it column, for it permits Mrs. Dean to comment upon the arts, music, personalities, current events or any other subject with which she is familiar and in which she is interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean, who were accompanied to Atlanta by their young son, Bobo, who bears his distinguished grandfather's name, are en route to North Carolina to vacation among that state's mountain peaks. Their trip was interrupted here when Mr. Dean was forced to undergo a serious operation. His convalescence, however, is permitting Atlanta friends opportunity to renew friendships made when Mr. and Mrs. Dean visited their brother and sister, Major and Mrs. A. G. Wing, who were stationed at Ft. McPherson for several years before being transferred to Fort Leavenworth.

THE EXPERIENCE of seeing Europe from a station wagon awaits Billy Akers and Rawson Haverly upon their arrival on foreign shores. The Atlanta pair sailed Saturday aboard the steamer Westernland, accompanied by 14 boys of their age, the group traveling under the tutelage of Arthur J. Barrie, a Yale graduate.

Upon arrival across the seas the boys will begin their trek over the continent in those convenient motor vehicles made popular in resorts and by fashionables owning country estates. From this vantage the youthful Americans will view France's beautiful chateau country and the magnificent Italian and Swiss Alps before starting through the Bavarian mountains.

Billy and Rawson, sons of the William Akers Sr. and the Clarence Haverly, are the closest of friends as are their parents. For two years the boys were roommates at Culver Military Institute in Indiana. It is no wonder that they selected each other's companionship for their first trip abroad.

Pelicans Shell Al Williams in Second To Take Final, 11-4

ABOARD U. S. S. DICKERSON WITH GEORGIA TECH NAVAL UNIT, June 23.—(By Air Mail)—The crew's nest is 84 feet above the waterline of the ship. You climb to the control bridge. From there you climb to the flying bridge where the forward searchlight is. And then you go straight up the ladder along the foremast and crowd yourself through the slot into the hollowed cylinder of steel where the lookout watches from the highest point. That's the "crow's nest."

And then it is all spread out before you. And you feel very far away from things and detached and able to think and see. You look to the right where the destroyers move in their division, seven of them, trim and clean, cutting the water at 15 knots.

You look down at the deck of your own ship and look into the funnels from which comes the all but invisible haze. You see the small figures of crew and officers. You hear the click of the pulleys as the signal flags are hoisted up as far as you have climbed.

The ship looks even narrower than it is. And it is a few feet longer than a football field and it is but a little more than 30 feet wide at the beam.

The water is a deep blue. You watch. Three porpoise break the water and begin to leap and dive about the bow, racing the ship. The sun glimmers on their huge black bodies as they play and cavort as if it were the greatest fun in the world to race a ship. One of them shows off. He gets immediately in front of the ship and swims there, keeping no more than a yard in front. And then, suddenly, with a swerve, he is gone and they all give one dive and drop astern.

You watch the sun on the water and the clouds that seem almost to be neighbors. They are so intensely white against a sky of blue that you stand there in your steel nest and search for some new adjectives to describe the scene. The horizon is innocent of freighter or steamer while you watch.

You look down and a school of flying fish break from the water and sail across the white caps, 50 or 60 feet of flying with their wings giving off an iridescent shimmer of color before they disappear with a small splash. You try to philosophize on life, of how the whole life beneath the water is one of eat or be eaten, but the scene is too beautiful and you come back to watching the destroyers.

AND THEN THE PICTURE.

And then the real picture comes to you. You know, suddenly, that you are seeing a very small segment of the nation's defense. Here, as the lean destroyers move along their courses, you are watching a tiny mobilization of the nation's sea forces.

And you know that all around this nation there is flung its navy, constituting the first line of defense. And it becomes very important to you, more important than it has ever been before. Somehow you had to puff and pull yourself up to this high place to get the picture.

Back home—back in a thousand cities or ten thousand cities—the people are going about their jobs, making a living. The business men are concerned with profits and the professional men are busy in courts and hospitals and offices. And about all they know of the navy is what they read about the cost of armaments and of ships. They see the figures of appropriations. They know Annapolis turns out a graduating class each June and that the movie news reels show pictures of the midshipmen tossing their caps in the air and marching in a straight line.

THE PICTURE COMES CLEARLY.

And that's about all they get of the picture. But up in the crow's nest the picture comes clearly. You look up to the sky and you are thankful your nation so far has escaped the horrors that have come to some. And you know that one of the reasons business goes on and professions are prosperous and one reason why the nation's internal revenue collections are larger than ever before, is this very squadron of destroyers which you see knitting their way through this blue sea in which the porpoise play and the flying fish break into the air and fly. The ships are a part of the nation's defenses, a segment of that far flung line of ships, the battle wagons, the subs, the cruisers, the tugs, the airplane carriers and the other destroyers that are this nation's shield from aggression.

It is a line of defense. And not of attack. And you know it must be kept ready and supplied with the latest ships and defenses. Because without them you know that greedy eyes and scheming brains would turn our way.

And so, you take one more look at the horizon that moves ahead of the ships, at the tumbling blue water and at the long, lean fighting ships and you feel very solemn and proud of them.

And then you climb back down and the officers on the bridge are laughing at how very carefully you climbed the ladder up the foremast and are acting surprised that you were able to get through the opening into the crow's nest.

And you laugh, too—because you really were, very, very careful. Eighty four feet is a long way for a somewhat heavy newspaper man to fall to a steel deck.

But you don't forget the picture from up there. And won't.

AND ON DECK.

And on deck you take another—and more appreciative—look at the Georgia Tech students who make up this crew of R. O. T. C. men.

They chose this course. No one made them do so. They chose it because they were interested in their nation's navy and its defense.

And they work at it. And they show a great eagerness to excel in competition with the other crews.

They, too, are a part of the picture. A very essential part. Today some of them were seasick and perhaps a bit homesick, too. But once the duty began they were ready. And you know, looking at them, that if in the future there should be duty, they would be ready then.

Caye Rallies To Beat Yates, 1 Up, on 37th

ALAN LED 2 UP WITH 3 HOLES LEFT IN MATCH

Even Yates' Hole-in-One Fails To Stop New Junior Champ.

By ROY WHITE.

Two down and three to go, Billy Caye, young Ansley Park star, staged a sensational rally to beat Alan Yates on the 37th green Sunday afternoon on the West End course to win Atlanta's junior golf championship.

It was one of the greatest championship matches ever played in Atlanta, man or boy, with Yates sinking a tee shot on the third green of the afternoon round for a hole in one. Yates' drive to the 189-yard par three hole hit in the center of the green and after a couple of bounces, rolled into the cup against the flag for the ace.

It was the 16th ace to be scored in Atlanta this year and Alan's shot follows one by Dan, an elder brother, early in the year at East Lake. Charlie, oldest of the three Yates boys, has three aces to his credit.

With almost every break against him throughout the day, Caye started his spectacular rally on the long seventh hole, the 34th of the match. He outdrew Yates some 40 yards and then sliced one out of bounds.

A FINE SHOT.

Caye's third shot, well down the middle, was one of his best of the round; he chipped short of the cup, but sank a long putt for a par 5 and a win. Yates' second shot on the hole was one of his best, but he chipped short of the green on his third, and took two putts after reaching the green on his fourth.

Caye, one down and two to go, came right back and dropped his tee shot five feet from the cup and sank the putt for a win against Yates' par three on the 35th. And the match was all square and one to go.

Yates' drive at No. 36 was some eight feet beyond the pin, while Caye was on the far edge and with a bad lie. He chipped just past the cup with a fine shot, and dropped the putt for a half, as Yates barely missed the long putt with a good try.

On the extra hole, Caye hooked into the rough, while Yates was straight down the middle. Caye played the greatest shot of the tournament, over some tall trees and onto the far edge of the green. Yates' second effort found the trap guarding the green. It was a bad lie.

DEAD TO PIN.

Yates played a great shot out, but it was some four feet short of the pin, while Caye rolled his putt up dead to the pin and was conceded the hole and match as Yates barely missed the four-foot putt.

Yates won the first and second holes, but lost the advantage at seven and went one down at nine. Yates won 10 and 11 and finished the morning round, one up. Both had medals of 76.

In the afternoon, Yates three-putted No. 20 to lose the hole, but followed with the act at 21 and was again only one up.

The match was all square to the 28, where Yates won two straight holes as Caye was in trouble and picked up on both 28 and 29. Caye drove two balls out of bounds to keep up his record of the week. Starting with the qualifying round, Caye was in bounds only once on that No. 2 in 12 nine-hole rounds and that was in the early afternoon Sunday.

YATES OPENS WELL.

Yates started well, but after the first few holes his putting went bad and he three-putted several times and missed numerous short ones. Caye's putting saved him several holes and his only three-putt green was at 25, where he took a seven.

Caye's recovery shots, particularly on the last few holes, were the deciding factors. His putting was very good and his approaches were okay, but not until late in the match did any of the breaks fall his way.

That ace of Yates' was enough to break the heart of any golfer, but not young Caye, who fought right back and squared the match with a birdie three on the next hole and went on to win in the greatest junior finish ever seen in Atlanta.

GREAT PROSPECT.

And with an almost perfect swing, and fine golf temperament, particularly to come back against odds, Billy Caye can be placed in the front ranks of Atlanta's prospective future stars.

APPLING FAILS TO LAND PLACE ON STAR SQUAD

Wally Moses To Play for American League Against National.

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Let the arguments now begin!

For here, fans, is the hand-picked squad which will represent the American league against the National league's best in the fifth annual All-Star game at Washington's Griffith stadium, home of the Senators, Wednesday, July 7.

Selected by Manager Joe McCarthy, of the World Champion New York Yankees, who will pilot the American league team by virtue of having led his club to its league title last year, and whose picks were based on suggestions from the other seven managers, the squad lines up thus:

Pitchers—Vernon Gomez, New York; Lefty Grove, Boston; Mel Harder, Cleveland; Wes Ferrell, Washington; and Monty Stratton, Chicago; Tommy Bridges, Detroit; Catchers—Bill Dickey, New York; Rick Ferrell, Washington, and Luke Sewell, Chicago.

Infielders—Lou Gehrig and Bob Rolfe, New York; Jimmy Foss and Manager Joe Cronin, Boston; Charley Gehring and Hank Greenberg, Detroit; Harold Clift, St. Louis, and Buddy Myers, Washington.

Outfielders—Earl Averill, Cleveland; Roy (Beau) Bell, St. Louis; Roger Cramer, Boston; Joe DiMaggio, New York; Wally Moses, Philadelphia, and Gerald Walker, Detroit.

Five of these stalwarts, Gehrig, Gomez, Dickey, Foss and Gehring, have been members of every American league squad since the All-Star game was inaugurated in 1933 at Chicago. Nine others, Grove, Cramer, Cronin, Harder, Averill, the Ferrell brothers, Myer and DiMaggio, have seen action in baseball's prize midsummer event. The remaining nine rank as "rookies" in this kind of baseball warfare.

Gehrig, leading the league in batting with an average around .390, rates first choice for the head man in home runs, batting in runs and scoring, along with hitting .350. Foss, a first baseman by trade, never has played that position in the All-Star game, but has operated as a third baseman in three games. There will be plenty of competition for the third base post, however, with Clift and Rolfe on the job, and Foss may watch the game as he did in 1933.

Gehring, still the league's top second baseman, has said he would rather not play because of an injury, which may give Myer, the 1935 league batting champion, employment. Cronin, having one of his biggest seasons at bat with a .350 mark, is the only shortstop listed. McCarthy and the other managers having passed up Luke Appling of the White Sox, the major league batting champion last year. Which may be used for argument purposes.

A notable absentee will be Ben Chapman, of Boston, who played in each of the previous games.

Crackers Option Simons to Macon

George Simons, tall young right-hander from Penn Athletic Club, who had a trial with the Crackers in the spring, yesterday was optioned to the Macon Braves by the Atlanta team, according to an announcement by President Earl Mann.

Simons has been hurling for Jackson, of the Cotton States league, this season, where his record for a fourth-place club was four won and five lost. He was going very well in the beginning, until being slowed by an injury, but is now ready to take his turn.

Trexler Treated For Bad Tonsils

Jim Trexler, Cracker southpaw, is being treated for a pair of bad tonsils and may not be available for pitching duty for four or five more days.

Trexler will not have to undergo an operation, it's reported, but will require several more treatments before he can pitch again.

It appears doubtful now that Emil Leonard will be ready to pitch in the Little Rock series. He may be ready for action again in one of the Memphis games. He's slowly regaining strength, but is not nearly strong enough to go nine innings.

The fathers, P. D. Yates and W. C. Yates Sr., were plenty proud of their sons as they followed every step of the afternoon round.

Grant Plays Austin In Wimbledon Meet

Real Action Starts Today With Many High-Ranking Netmen Left in Field.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—(AP)—After a week of strenuous competition which makes up the first half of Wimbledon's great fortnight of tennis, the decks were really cleared for action today as tennis stars from all over the world rested in preparation for the second and hardest part.

The singles fields already have been shorn of their excess baggage. Only eight players remained today in the men's singles and they came very close to being the best eight in the world. The women's singles, down to the last 16, followed the same trend.

The eight men, who will play their quarter final matches tomorrow, are Don Budge, Bryan (Billsy) Grant and Frank Parker, of the United States Davis Cup team, Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel of Germany and England's sole survivor, Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin.

Of these only Parker was not listed by A. Wallis Myers, the noted British critic, in his world's first ten. Members of that list who were missing were Fred Perry, who has turned pro, Wilmer Allison, who has retired from major competition, and Adrian Quist, who has been ill. Seven of the eight were seeded for the tournament while the failure to place the other Crawford, caused a considerable hullabaloo which apparently was justified when he eliminated the towering Czech, Roderich Menzel, seeded sixth, in the opening round.

Headed by the American, Helen Hull Jacobs, and Mrs. Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany and Denmark, winner and runner-up last year, the survivors in women's singles include the first eight of the "world's first ten" of their sex. Along with Miss Jacobs, Alice Marble, the American champion, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., and New York, remained in the running. Only Boston's Katherine Winthrop was eliminated in the first week.

When play is resumed tomorrow the men's pairings will be Budge vs. McGrath, Parker vs. Henkel, Grant vs. Austin and Von Cramm vs. Crawford. The two leading women players are not scheduled to play again until Tuesday but a pair of good fourth-round matches will send Dorothy Round of England against Countess de la Valdene, the former Lili de Alvarez of Spain, and Mme. Rene Mathieu of France against Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King, of England.

aid of the New York Boxing Commission.

Co-Manager Art Winch of the suspended champion said they were leaving for Chicago tonight to await word from Mike Jacobs on a proposed match in New York with Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rico. Failing in that, England holds "two good offers for Ross," Winch said.

PEBBLES INVADE ATLANTA TODAY FOR FIVE TILTS

Michaels Ineffective in Relief; Bettencourt and Grimes Hit Homers.

By JACK TROY.

The New Orleans Pelicans bunched nine of their 10 hits off Al Williams and John Michaels in two big innings yesterday afternoon, whipped the

Although the Crackers suffered a shellacking at the hands of New Orleans in the final game of the series, the two-time champions rebounded into third place when Birmingham lost both games of a double-header to Chattanooga.

Crackers, 11 to 4, and got an even break in the four-game series.

Bill Perrin, Pelican portside, took it easy all the way, tightening up now and then in infrequent pinches. Although he gave up 11 hits, Perrin allowed only four runs, one in the fourth and three in the ninth. A bit of lax fielding enabled the Crackers to stage a minor rally with two men out.

Williams, off form, was batted from the box in his second appearance since rejoining the Crackers. The Pels got him out in the second and continued to bombard Michaels. The seven-run rally in the second clinched the game. But the Pels added four more in the fourth. It was a proposition of seven come 11.

MILLER FINISHES.

Michaels allowed only one hit for the next three innings and retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Larry Miller finished the game.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 1

Through the dark, mysterious jungle of Africa, a long safari would it take a great, sluggish serpent. The travelers believed they were far from the eyes and haunts of men; but through the shadows there glided a silent human figure, watching silently.

"Now in country of Tarzan of the Apes," the native guide declared proudly. "Huh! Looking for Tarzan in this endless wilderness is worse than hunting for a needle in a haystack," Stanley Wood retorted, looking at his sole white companion, Robert van Eyk.

Suddenly, as if there were some magic in his words to conjure up the object of his search, the figure of a bronzed white man flashed before his eyes, plummeting from the trees directly into the trail.

"I am Tarzan," the figure announced, "what do you want?"

The black carriers stood gazing with awe at the Jungle Lord, who was the subject of a thousand heroic tales. Even Stanley Wood was too startled to make an immediate reply. "What do you want of me?" Tarzan repeated. "Perhaps your life!"

BANK RACKET PROBE SHIFTING TO MACON

Two Suspects To Be Transferred; Heavy Bonds Asked.

Two men arrested here Thursday night by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Atlanta detectives in connection with alleged bank swindles throughout the state will be transferred to Macon, it was learned last night. The men, listed as Jett Smith, 26, of Athens, and Roy Capps, 33, of St. Louis, are in Fulton Tower. Although federal agents declined to discuss the case, it was learned that the men will be transferred from the tower probably today or tomorrow.

It was indicated that bonds of $25,000 each will be asked. A deputy sheriff from Jesup, Ga., where a bank was allegedly victimized by swindlers, visited the tower yesterday and requested R. M. Holland, chief jailer, to send photographs of the men to Jesup, so that bank officials may see them, with a view of possible identification.

Holland said the photographs and records will be sent to Jesup today.

HOMES EVACUATED AS WATERS RISE

Geysers Break Through Streets of Ohio Town; Guardsmen on Duty.

BELLEVUE, Ohio, June 27.—(AP) Mayor R. E. Woelzel announced today that the entire south side of this town of 6,000 had been evacuated as water in a lake two miles square rose rapidly to within a foot of the top of a 30-foot embankment.

The lake, formed by seepage from a number of underground streams over which a large part of Bellevue is built, was being held by an embankment of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, patrolled today by two companies of Ohio national guardsmen.

The underground streams, normally flowing beneath the region to Lake Erie, are filled by heavy rains of the past week, and unable to take care of natural drainage which also has gone into the temporary lake.

With the tremendous pressure placed on the underground streams, it was not an unusual sight in Bellevue today to see the streets breaking through the streets in geysers 15 to 20 feet high. Burgess estimated the lake covers 2,000 acres.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES ISLAND FOR CAPITAL

Democrats to Complete Legislative Program, Is 'Feast' Report.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 27.—(AP)—Democratic leaders of congress returned tonight from a week-end frolic on Jefferson Island with word that adjournment was still a long way off and that the administration was going ahead with its program.

Although they still insisted that the convalescence was "purely social," some leaders expressed belief it had solidified determination to keep congress in session until major legislation is disposed of.

"I have nothing to say about adjournment that would be pleasing to myself," Senator Robinson, the majority leader, told newspapermen at the dock. "It looks to me like adjournment is far in the offing—although I'm willing to work out something."

Representative Rayburn, Democratic leader of the house, reported that "nothing happened" to change his view that "it will be a long time" before adjournment. He said he had been forecasting all along that the session would not end before August 15 or September 1.

Although Secretary Wallace's "ever-normal granary" bill was not listed on the administration program, there were hints that President Roosevelt would give new support to this measure within a day or two.

Wallace himself gave waiting reporters the first hint of something of this kind. He said "we just had a good time," but added, "I think you'll have some news tomorrow."

Representative Roosevelt, tanned and rested, started back to Washington on the U. S. S. Potomac tonight. He is due at the Washington navy yard tomorrow morning.
